Spanish Bay violations

County supervisors slap lawsuits on PB Co.

By DAVID LELAND

DESPITE PROFUSE apologies from the company's president, county supervisors on Tuesday took the Pebble Beach Co. to task.

While the Monterey County Board of Supervisors has locked horns with the company numerous times over projects principally involving interpretation of the Del Monte Forest Land Use Plan, it soon became apparent during this week's hearing that the board saw the company's latest exercise in self-will as the last straw.

Earlier this month county officials discovered that Pebble Beach Co. had committed several land-use violations concerning the golf course at The Inn at Spanish Bay. These included:

- Loading about 800 cubic yards of landfill into a protected riparian/wetland area north of the 14th fairway near Sunset Boulevard.

Council approaching decision on revisions to residential design

By NANCY HILLS

AFTER MONTHS of discussion, decisions about changes to Carmel's residential district code could be on the way.

The Carmel City Council meets in a special meeting at 4 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 17 in Carmel City Council chambers to begin consolidating

"I'm not at all optimistic. I believe that in 30 years, there will be very few Carmel cottages."

— Jim Wright

and completing their discussions about revisions to the residential code.

"We've set it as a workshop with possible action, but I'm not ready until we hear from everybody," Mayor Jean Grace said. "We haven't covered all the issue yet and I would like to get to see the whole thing in a package."

"I think we need to decide how much we allow to be built on 4,000-square-foot lots, especially in light of the fact that the state has set 5,000 square feet as the average lot size statewide," councilmember Ken White said. "We need to decide the footprint we allow and how much square footage in total a lot can hold."

At the last regularly scheduled council meeting White asked that the workshop be

- Removed about 15,000 square feet of vegetation on the 18th fairway.

- Removed vegetation and placed fill in the environmentally sensitive habitat of the remnant dune to create new tee areas for the 3rd, 15th and 18th holes.

- Graded and removed vegetation in the environmentally sensitive dune habitat east of the 10th fairway.

All this work was done illegally without county or Coastal Commission permits, according to Bob Slimmon, planning and building inspection department director.

What's more, Slimmon told the board that "No permit could (ever) be issued to allow that work to take place."

Slimmon said the Pebble Beach Co. has filed plans for a temporary erosion control plan and has until Oct. 18 to file a complete restoration plan, which will eventually undergo scrutiny by the board and Monterey County Planning Commission during public hearings.

Moreover, Slimmon added that Oct. 10 the county filed a notice of violation for the illegal grading work at Spanish Bay. Such an action clouds a property's title and makes it difficult, if not impossible, to sell the land until the matter is cleared up.

While acknowledging that the work was performed by the company's golf department, Tom Oliver, Pebble Beach Co. president, shouldered the blame for the incident.

"Ultimately it was my responsibility; I accept that responsibility," he said. "(The Pebble Beach Co.) is painfully aware of this mistake. I apologize to the board, Coastal Commission and general public."

But 30 minutes into this week's hearing, supervisors abruptly adjourned to closed session with Ralph Kuchler, county counsel. Forty minutes later they returned to their chambers and lowered the boom on the Pebble Beach Co.

"The law is the law," said 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman after the hearing. "It applies equally to everyone."

Punitive actions taken by the board include:

- Filing several civil lawsuits calling for double fines and the cost of the cleanup and damages.

According to Kuchler, state fines could range between $50 and $5,000 per day, with that money going into Coastal Commission coffers.

A lawsuit asking for county damages will also be filed immediately, which would bring money into the county.

- Directed Slimmon to review the permit for The Links at Spanish Bay.

Before allowing construction of the hotel and golf course, the county and state placed strict guidelines on the project.

The dune formation and native plant life found in and around Spanish Bay is irreplaceable, according to Lee Otter, Coastal Commission planner.

Strasser Kauffman and 4th District Supervisor Sam Karas have asked that the board consider revoking the golf permit for Spanish Bay via a public hearing.

County staff will make a recommendation on that issue during a board meeting scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 24. There was no time set at press time.

- Review the permit for Spanish Bay condominiums. While the first two phases of 48 condominiums are nearing completion, the third phase of 32 units may be in jeopardy.

- Evaluate and put a hold on all permit applications from the Pebble Beach Co. now on file with the county.

YELLOW TAPE denotes an off-limits area at the 18th hole at The Links at Spanish Bay, the result of several land-use violations occurring at the golf course. This week the Monterey County Board of Supervisors authorized its legal counsel to file a lawsuit against the Pebble Beach Co., charging that the company illegally filled in wetland areas and destroyed sand dunes around the 3rd, 10th, 14th, 15th and 18th holes. Supervisors will meet in two weeks to discuss the possibility of revoking the Pebble Beach Co.'s permit to operate the golf course at The Inn at Spanish Bay. (Chuck Scardina photo.)

The company currently has eight applications pending, according to Slimmon. These range from the extension of Congress Road and interior remodeling at the Lodge Store to restrooms at Bird Rock and the Spanish Bay condominiums.

"This could include every Pebble Beach Co. project in the forest," Strasser Kauffman said. "That includes the new subdivision of 359 units."

While the county is obligated to continue accepting permits, it need not process them while this matter is under review.

- Directed Kuchler to review possible further legal actions against the company.

BEFORE THIS week's hearing, which was closed to the public, several area residents testified that they believed it was time for the Pebble Beach Co. to stand up and answer for its actions.

They put little stock in Oliver's apology.

"Mr. Oliver is a very good speaker, but he's full of baloney," said Helaine Clark, adding that the company's commitment to reforest a portion of the forest have progressed not a bit. "Their technique is to wear residents down so they'll go away."

Cam Schure agreed, "Don't swallow sweet words, they won't come true."

After the hearing representatives of the Preserve 17-Mile Drive Committee were somewhat appeased.

"I think it's about time that the Pebble Beach Co. suffer some penalties for what they have done," said Phyllis Wildenrad, whose group met the company head-on in opposition to its illegal grading project at Bird Rock.

Strasser Kauffman said she believed the will of the people had been met.

"I completely understand that the public is concerned about this," she said. "Cleaning up the damage will not be sufficient this time around."

Transient relief

Dear Editor:

Re the Damoclesian power saw hanging over that Wild Kingdom, the Hatton Canyon: Caltrans is a real Transgressor if it would trash 10,000 trees just to save us five minutes; and a Caltrans bit of relief it would be at best, because even though a freeway can provide a fast lane for the nonce, it is nonsensical to believe that, following the way of California freeways, it will not simply be paving the way for thousands more points of light inland and along the coast.

How could anyone improve each shining minute enough to atone for this ecological outrage? After all, those trees are not just standing there but are working 'round the clock to recycle the effects of our fossil fuelishness.

I move that we give the whole canyon back to the Indians.

Wild claims

Dear Editor:

Our professional petition circulator has shot off another fictitious accusation just as he did during his unsuccessful campaign for mayor. That defeat should have told him something. He loves to make wild claims which cannot be substantiated. The General Plan Review Committee inserted a limitation on art galleries which has been carefully observed by the planning commission.

It would be wise for those anxious to criticize to take more care with their accusations before inventing statistics. There is a word for that.

A new lethal weapon

Dear Editor:

This relates to your excellent lead story on Sept. 28. It is ironic that that wonderful 20th century legal innovation of the "EIR" (Environmental Impact Report), which protects everything...like butterflies to human minorities...from loose-cannon developments that would reduce "quality of life"...has now turned into a monstrous instrument of intimidation and delay recklessly imposed when bureaucratic self-interest is challenged.

Specifically, the LAFCO (Local Agency Formation Commission) board, on Sept. 26 in Salinas, with a pronouncement equivalent to James I's establishment of the Divine Right of Kings, ruled in a 3-2 majority vote that the "Pebble Beach Committee to Incorporate" request that they be allowed to VOTE on the issue of incorporation must hinge on the development of an EIR to see if self-rule would be good for them, or, said another way, the royalists will weigh the fate of the colonists.

Since when can a community's right to self-determination be denied by bureaucratic-delay techniques when there is no issue relevant to environmental impact?

As a friend said yesterday: "It's a little like having required Bing Crosby to submit an EIR before creating the now-AT&T golf classic — or demanding an EIR as a prerequisite to determining whether LAFCO can even have another meeting!"

There is absolutely nothing in the Pebble Beach proposal to vote on incorporation that would have any negative impact on the community — the only "negative impact" is the county's loss of revenue and bureaucratic turf. We must remember to thank the Lord for Mayor Takahashi and Mayor Ortiz who understood the issues enough to vote with the Pebble Beach citizens.

We shall burn no flag...until it's time.

One step backward

Dear Editor:

Friday, Sept. 29 at about 11:30 on a beautiful morning an irreplaceable treasure of Carmel was legally destroyed.

The old Monterey pine on the lot next door to my home had a beautiful branch, defying the law of gravity, growing downwards in a beautiful curve. For the past 21 years I have been looking through it and around it to Point Lobos, admiring its beauty and unusual growth pattern.

Tree pruners descended, and after a pause to allow me to try to arrange for a stay of execution followed the instructions of the owner, except for the fact that they arrived several hours early, not unusual for workers on Friday if they arrive at all. Members of the Forestry Department arrived promptly in answer to my call for help, and were sympathetic but unable to stop the process. Not so the property owner who, when I reached him at his office merely replied, "Margaret, just think how it will improve your view." This was in spite of the fact that I had emphasized how glad I was that it had survived the destruction and rebuilding of the 50 year old cottage next door.

Earlier in the week workers had installed a white gutter bisecting a blank redwood wall when it could have been placed at the corner permitting me to have a background for plants which would have weathered gracefully. Although it couldn't compensate for the loss of my view from dining area, it would have helped my acceptance of the wall.

Starting with the new week, I am confronted with that, a view of the stump of a branch, badly pruned by the former owner, on and otherwise ordinary tree, a power pole and an expanded view of Point Lobos which I may enjoy when the pain subsides. I hope the peace of mind of the property owners for that rather useless stretch of deck compensates for our loss. One small step backward in the preservation of the beauty of Carmel and adieu to another unique treasure!

We need Balance

Dear Editor:

How could Mayor Jean Grace appoint another person to the Planning Commission who represents the commercial community? This is unbelievable and disappointing.

This appointment means that the deck is stacked against the residents by a score of 7-0. Not one of the commissioners represents the residents — without ties to the business community. This unbalance is unhealthy and undemocratic and will surely do damage to our fragile village.

The system works

Dear Editor:

Hooray for the repeal of the Catastrophic Health Care Act! Once again, the cries from the American people have been heard and it shows that our system really does work!

An election year political sham, the main benefit of the program allowed "unlimited hospital stays." However, the average length of stay at CHOMP is 4.7 days because the federal "Diagnostically Related Groups" program spells out every illness and the fixed dollar amount the government will pay for it. Therefore, the hospitals are forced to downgrade a patient either to a skilled nursing facility or out of the hospital altogether. In essence, the "unlimited" benefit was minimal.

The program also allowed for 150 days of SKILLED nursing care. However, only .5 percent of the people in long-term care facilities need skilled or "round-the-clock" medical treatment. Therefore, 99.5 percent would not qualify for the benefit.

The average cost of a nursing home on the Monterey Peninsula is $2,800 per month and Medicare will pay nothing because 95 percent of the people in long-term care facilities are there for CUSTODIAL reasons. They need help with everyday living activities. In order to receive help from the government to pay for this, you must first spend down all your assets to $1,800.

Eight dollars out of every $10 for medical care for seniors is spent on long-term care for which the government pays nothing. Most family assets are depleted in a few months.

How long could YOU write out a check for $2,800 per month? Forty percent of all adults over 65 will spend some time in a nursing home and the average length of stay is 2.5 years! That adds up to $84,000!

Rep. Leon Panetta stated yesterday, "Those who think Congress will come back and restore these benefits and pay for them some other way, or will take action on long-term care, are being sadly misled." Well, I say, "Fight back!" Do something about it! Take care of our elderly and let them live with dignity! If we have enough money to lend to foreign governments, we can certainly take care of the people who have borne the burden of ever-increasing taxes over the past 40 years.

End could be approaching for R-4 controversy

By NANCY HILLS

IT COULD be the beginning of the end for the R-4 district controversy.

The Carmel Planning Commission will conduct a special meeting at 3 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 18 in Carmel City Council Chambers to certify the environmental impact report on the R-4 district.

The commission is also scheduled to make recommendations on density and other zoning regulations for an area that has been under discussion for more than 10 years.

The staff is recommending that the planning commission continue the meeting and allow staff to put together a report on their decisions and present it at a subsequent meeting for final approval. The city council will take final action on the R-4.

The planning commission proposed a specific plan for the proposed area about three years ago that included 66 units per acre density in portions of the district. The plan sparked protests from neighbors and other citizens, who demanded an EIR before any final determination was made. The R-4 EIR states that 66 units per acre is too high for a transition zone between the residential and commercial areas.

However, since the specific plan was first proposed, some important changes have taken place in the zone that (approximately) incorporates Junipero Avenue between Third and Fifth avenues, and is bordered on the east by Torres Street and the west by Mission Street.

Last December the city of Carmel purchased the single largest developable piece of property in the area — the Handley property, now called the Torres Street property.

"That made the city the largest landowner in the district," city planner Brian Roseth explained. The R-4 also incorporates the police station, city corporation yard and the Carmel Youth Center.

It was the density in the Handley property that had galvanized most of protesters, but now the city is in the process of turning it into a free parking lot.

Other properties remain for development in an area that was intended as a transition zone between the commercial and the residential districts.

The Murphy property on the corner of Junipero Avenue and Fourth Avenue is the largest parcel still subject to development, though other parcels could be developed further.

This week, property owner Bob Murphy submitted plans for 20 units, 10 apartments and 10 condominiums for the approximately one-half acre parcel. That works out to 44 units per acre, or a base of 33 units per acre with a low- to moderate-income housing bonus. The project includes two low-income housing units.

Roseth explained that the planning commission will review at least three options for its recommendations. These include:

- Keeping the current zoning of 33 units per acre, 44 with affordable housing bonus, and the same design regulations which allow 160 percent floor area coverage and 20 percent open space.

- Keeping the current density of 33 units per acre but incorporating commercial design regulations which, due to recent changes, are similar but a little stricter than the present R-4 design regulations.

The proposed specific plan, not in effect, suggests 91 percent floor area ratio and 50 percent open space while the commercial district requires a maximum of 90 percent floor area ratio and 30 percent open space (which includes parking lots and pathways).

- Get rid of the R-4 zone and make it residential-commercial, the transition zone for the rest of the community.

The residential-commercial district has a 33-unit-per-acre maximum, 44 units per acre with a low- to moderate-income residential unit density bonus.

The RC district allows some types of businesses that are not currently permitted by R-4 zoning, but Roseth said he will have to make a comparison to determine the differences. It would also allow some additional commercial construction.

Water district OKs annexation of Quail Meadows subdivision

By NANCY HILLS

THE PENINSULA water management district board Monday night approved the annexation of the proposed Carmel Valley Quail Meadows subdivision into the California-American Water Co. in exchange for a reduction in water use on the property owner's golf course.

Ed Haber, Quail Meadows owner and developer, will get to hook up his proposed the course will have to reduce its use to 254 acre feet.

The course is watered by unmetered private pumps and the use is calculated by a formula that translates energy used to pump the water per acre feet into the total amount of acre feet used.

The project was unanimously approved by the Monterey County Board of Supervisors earlier this year. The supervisors had required an EIR on the project.

While the proposed project received rave reviews from almost everyone who spoke, the annexation was the subject of criticism.

Most of the speakers questioned whether the actual water use of the golf course is known, given the difference between the average water use figures from the Quail Meadows representatives and the water district staff.

Nancy McClintock, representing the League of Women Voters, asked why the district had not conducted an EIR on the project.

Others requested that the district wait on any annexations until the allocation EIR is completed.

A motion by water district director Dick Heuer to continue the item until next month to allow more time to answer the public's questions died for a lack of a second.

"If there is one subdivision in all of Carmel Valley that should be approved, it is probably Quail Meadows. It has been held up by the Carmel Valley Master Plan, approved by the board of supervisors, is environmentally sound and provides public and private benefits," Heuer said. "Ed Haber is not an outside carpetbagger coming in to make money on us, but is one of us. But as a water board director, I cannot and should not be directed by whether I approve of a project or not. I should ask, 'Will this annexation result in a net reduction of water use or create an additional burden?'"

Heuer said he believed it would reduce water use but the public needs to be assured.

"We need to persuade skeptical people that you can save water by expanding Cal-Am's system. I think this project can save water for the community," he said.

To prove that, the district needed to review the water use figures again and wait until the annual review of water use is done by staff next month, Heuer maintained.

After his motion died, water director and 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman led the discussion to get the project approved.

"I hope we can address those concerns tonight. There were many important points raised by the public and we share those concerns. I would like to say that most of the questions have already been addressed in the county's EIR," she said.

"I have been a real stickler on annexation because I feel the need to conserve our water for those that are here. This project requires our consideration now because it brings its own water with it, it is not taking water away from current residents."

During further discussions, the other board members agreed and the vote was unanimous to approve the annexation.

Concerns voiced about freeway in meeting of canyon coalition

By MARIANNE MANGOLD

THE SUNSET Center auditorium held a near full house Oct. 5, as concerned Carmel citizens shared their questions regarding Caltrans' proposed Hatton Canyon Freeway.

A panel of consultants hired by the Hatton Canyon Coalition challenged Caltrans' findings on several issues concerning the construction of the freeway.

Moderator Michael Waldroup introduced the panel: Francis "Skip" Lloyd, coalition chairman, described where the coalition has been and where it is going. He emphasized that the coalition isn't proposing any particular freeway design at this time, but is focusing on less environmentally damaging, "practical" alternatives.

The need for the public to support the coalition's efforts in challenging Caltrans was reinforced with Lloyd's closing statement, "People in our community value the Hatton Canyon and are willing to put their money where their mouth is."

Architect Will Shaw of Shaw Associates served on a 1960 freeway committee during Monterey's earlier developing years and shared some design problems they encountered. Because of his past experiences with freeway difficulties, he strongly suggested, "We need a more sensitive approach to the Hatton Canyon Freeway."

Rachel Hooper, legal counsel to the coalition, emphasized how important the Environmental Impact Report is to the Hatton Canyon Coalition.

"Because if an alternative design is better for the environment, then the agency has to consider this," she said. "It's necessary to analyze the EIR and correct it — alerting the agency to less damaging designs. The public should express their opinions during the EIR review process and participate with the Coastal Commission. Our role is watchdogs — to make sure the environmental laws are doing what they should be."

Terry Watt, planner, presented an evaluation of environmental impacts, including findings on wetlands, noise and air pollution and destruction of the Hatton Canyon.

"Caltrans thought the freeway was impossible to build 30 years ago and now we are here to remind them of that," she concluded.

Scott Hennessy, biologist, explained how the wetlands constitutes more acres than reported by Caltrans. He reported that 48 species of birds nest in the canyon among the 13,000 native trees that the freeway would remove.

"The wetlands are a natural habitat for animals and plants. The freeway would obliterate the wetlands and the noise levels and pollution would drive animals away," he said.

An enthusiastic round of applause from the audience supported Hennessy's comment, "How can we ask Third World countries to protect their resources when we can't protect our own?"

Bruce Elliot, biologist for the state Department of Fish & Game, discussed wetlands issues, which included the inadequacies with mitigation when not geographically properly proposed for the benefit of the birds passing through.

After a brief intermission, when many participants viewed the exhibits in the lobby and video presentation of the "single point diamond" type interchange as an example of what is proposed for the Carmel Valley Road intersection, the panel answered questions directed from the audience. Ann Stevens, a transportation planner, joined the panel and addressed questions concerning traffic analysis.

The citizens' concerns included noise levels, quality of life, design alternatives and how to obtain a Final Environmental Impact Statement. Upon issuance of the FEIS, the public will then have 30 days in which to provide comment on specifics of the document to which comment or reply must be made in the FEIS document before its final adoption.

Coniglio is Grace appointment to planning commission

By NANCY HILLS

PHIL CONIGLIO may feel he was appointed to a hot seat rather than a seat on the planning commission, though past commissioners might tell him it's the same thing.

'I feel I know the city as a resident and I've seen outrageous changes in the village over the years.'

— Phil Coniglio

Though he was born here, has lived in Carmel most of his life and his family's business, Mediterranean Market, is one of the most revered "quality" shops in Carmel, Coniglio's appointment to the planning commission generated a rumble of protest from local political activists.

He has not been involved in the city government process, and other candidates not chosen by Mayor Jean Grace to replace Olof Dahlstrand had long, or at least intense, histories of interest in local government, they said.

Grace, at the September city council meeting, outlined her specifications for a candidate.

Two of the criteria she said she was looking for were someone who would do the necessary "homework" and who is not affiliated with any particular political group.

Councilmembers Jim Wright and Ken White both protested her decision and voted against Coniglio's appointment, adding that they did not know him and that it was nothing personal.

Wright and White said it was the mayor's decision-making process that eliminated candidates whose views were known, that have no particular ties to the business community and are acquainted with the planning process that prompted their objections.

Furthermore, they said, the business community has adequate representation on the planning commission with its two realtors, two architects and one newspaper publisher as commissioners.

The board of the Carmel Residents Association, which had two CRA members as applicants for the post, agreed with that assessment.

All this has not frightened Coniglio away and he himself said he has no quarrel with those who protested his appointment. He fully admits to having to get up to speed on planning issues.

"I am more than willing to start and learn," Coniglio said, and is busy doing his homework right now.

He explained he did have some experience with the planning process — from the viewpoint of an applicant. Both as manager of the Mediterranean Market and as a Carmel homeowner he has had to go through the city government. The market recently built a new trash enclosure that was reviewed by the planning commission and he and his wife, Star, just completed construction on their home.

"I feel I know the city as a resident," the 35-year-old Coniglio said, "and I've seen outrageous changes in the village over the years."

He explained that he applied for a post on the planning commission because he felt he should get more involved in the community where he grew up and has worked for most of his life.

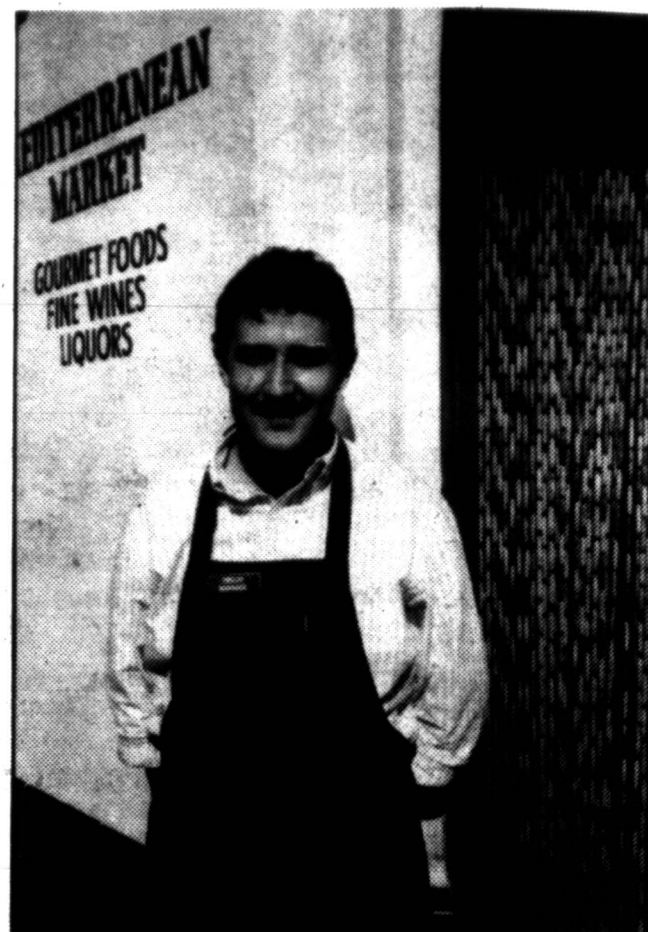

"As a long-term resident and business owner, I feel that I want to keep the overall feel that Carmel has generated. That is one of a small town where there is a non-hype business atmosphere. I would like to keep intact what Carmel is all about — an artistic, cultural community."

"I don't want to see it pulled apart by outside interests. We have some wonderful neighborhoods here that should be protected."

Coniglio said he hoped to focus on the problems that will help to implement the general plan.

"I hope I don't get bogged down with petty issues and can deal with the important ones," he said.

In the residential district, Coniglio has noticed new homes that he feels are out of place.

NEWLY APPOINTED Carmel Planning Commissioner Phil Coniglio was scheduled to join the commission Wednesday, Oct. 11. (Nancy Hills photo.)

"There seems to be an awful lot of building around. I've been surprised at a lot of the things allowed to go up. They are just not in keeping with the overall character of Carmel," he said.

Design review is an important part of keeping that character intact, he added.

As a planning commissioner, Coniglio said, he will try to balance the question of how to keep Carmel "generating income without selling out and making it a shopping mall."

One of the saddest changes he has seen over time, Coniglio said, is the demise of the customer who is also a resident.

"It is hard to have a residentially oriented

Carmel Valley Road radar enforcement begins Oct. 16

CALIFORNIA HIGHWAY Patrol officers will begin enforcing speed via radar on portions of Carmel Valley Road beginning Monday, Oct. 16.

The long-awaited action, brought about by Citizens for Radar, which purchased the equipment, saw two radar units donated to Monterey County Supervisors Oct. 10, which they in turn provided to the CHP.

"This culminates a process that began over a year ago due to concern for speed on Carmel Valley Road," said CHP Sgt. Bob Davies. "This issue is of critical importance to the motoring public."

Friday, Oct. 13, CHP will install radar units in patrol cars and the county public works department sign crew will place signs indicating that speed will be monitored by radar.

The signs will be located eastbound at Laureles Grade, between Ford and Pilot roads and east of Carmel Rancho Boulevard. Westbound signs will be placed east of Esquiline Road prior to Carmel Valley Village and west of Laureles Grade.

During the week ending Oct. 22, CHP officers will conduct demonstrations of radar at Country Club Drive. Times and dates for demonstrations are available from CHP Officer Mike Star at 455-1822.

Supes pick selves as lead agency on Canada Reservoir

THE MONTEREY Board of Supervisors voted to act as lead agency for the proposed Canada Reservoir, prompting objections and claims of territorial takeover plans from Monterey Peninsula Water Management District officials.

The supervisors voted unanimously for the county flood control district to act as lead agency on the environmental review process for the offstream reservoir proposed by California-American Water Co.

The reservoir would be located in the hills above the vicinity of Quail Lodge.

Water district director Dick Heuer told the supervisors that "alternative water supply projects are the essence of the district" and that the district's incorporating legislation gave it priority in such matters. He also said that the district would challenge the supervisors' action with the state when the county officially files for the EIR.

Heuer said he viewed the action as the first round in the supervisors possibly trying to take over the district.

As an individual, Heuer said that it is "no secret" that the district is politically weak at this time and public credibility is "about as low as it can get."

"When the prey is weak, the vultures start to circle," Heuer told The Carmel Pine Cone/Pacific Grove Monarch after the meeting.

After the election in November, Heuer said, he expects there will be changes that will help the district's credibility.

Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman, who is also a water board director, said she voted for the proposal because "the water district staff is already overburdened."

"I don't see a problem. I understand the concerns of the water district board, but this is no different than the Carmel Sanitary District acting as lead agency on the reclamation plant. The most important thing is to get the EIR out. I see it as a good cooperative venture," Strasser Kauffman said. "I don't want to say the Canada Reservoir is a reality."

The project "needs to be explained at the earliest possible time to see if it" is a feasible alternative, she added.

business service here in Carmel because of the rent. And the residents don't really seem to support those businesses. I just don't see that many familiar faces (in Med Market) anymore except the people who work downtown. We have far fewer local charges than we used to," he said.

Picking which is more important — commercial or residential district — to Carmel is impossible, he added. Both combine to create Carmel's special character, he observed.

From 1978 to 1983, Coniglio lived in Santa Fe for a change of pace. While there, he said, that town underwent a "tremendous change" more intense than what Carmel has experienced but similar.

"When I moved away to Santa Fe, it made me really appreciate Carmel. There is nothing like Carmel. It has got the most beautiful meeting of of the ocean, mountains, valley and river," he said.

Coming attractions

IT WON'T be long before Monterey County Bank opens up shop in downtown Carmel, according to Charles Chrietberg, the bank's chairman and CEO.

"We're actively looking for a downtown Carmel location, which is our No. 1 priority," he said, adding that he has a timeline of about 90 days to accomplish such a feat. "We've got some pretty definite plans."

Monterey County Bank currently operates offices in Monterey and at the mouth of the valley.

Meanwhile, Chrietberg has appointed Jeffery E. Walbeck as the bank's senior vice president and CEO.

Walbeck comes to the peninsula after serving 19 years in the state's banking industry, and most recently served as vice president and manager in the greater Salinas market.

A graduate of California State University at Fresno, Walbeck currently serves on the board of the Economic Development Corp. of Monterey County. He was also appointed by the Monterey County Board of Supervisors to the Industrial Development Authority of Monterey County.

"Jeff Walbeck's knowledge and experience will be extremely valuable to the bank's entry in the Salinas market, planned for 1990," Chrietberg said. "We are very pleased to have Jeff join us as we continue to rebuild for the future."

A friendly reminder...The Carmel Business Association and Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce will hold a membership mixer from 5 to 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 12, at 3785 Via Nona Marie — across from the U.S. Post Office at the mouth of the valley.

Hosted by Titor Title Insurance Co., the shindig will feature a no-host bar, hors d'oeuvres and music by Mike Marotta. The $5 admission fee will be retained by the CBA and chamber.

An opening to remember...Kathleen Fitzgerald tells us that her grand opening of The Express d'Orient Restaurant earlier this month was a smashing success.

Cutting the ribbon at the Oct. 4 ceremony, which was chosen because it was the date of the inaugural run of the original Orient Express in 1883, was Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce Board President Chuck Della Sala.

The restaurant, located in The Crossroads Shopping Center, features cuisine of five different countries: France, Hungary, Greece, Italy and the good ol' USA.

The menu offers about 10 entrees from each country, plus appetizers, soups, salads, pastas, desserts and a wide selection of domestic and imported wines.

A great year for chainsaws...Paul Krueger of Acorn Hardware in Mid Valley has received the award for outstanding achievement by Pacific Stihl for purchasing more than 100 units during the past fiscal year.

Chico-based Pacific Stihl sells chain saws and other outdoor power equipment.

Krueger received his award at a recent three-day dealer meeting held at Kirkwood.

Time to move on...That's the news from Annis Lembo, owner of Hampton Court Properties, who's put her store on the market for the tidy sum of $60,000 — that includes the lease.

After 7½ years at her Seventh and San Carlos location, Lembo says she wants to pursue other interests, such as freelance advertising and public relations. She adds that she will probably open a small real estate office as well.

"I did what I wanted to do," she says. "I started a first-class office."

But with major agencies, such as Cornish & Carey, migrating to town, Lembo has had enough.

"It's too hard," she says. "They have all the clout."

Keep an eye out...Susan Britton of Carmel Valley-based Britton Designs, Inc. is featured in the October issue of Good Housekeeping magazine, as designer of its kitchen makeover contest.

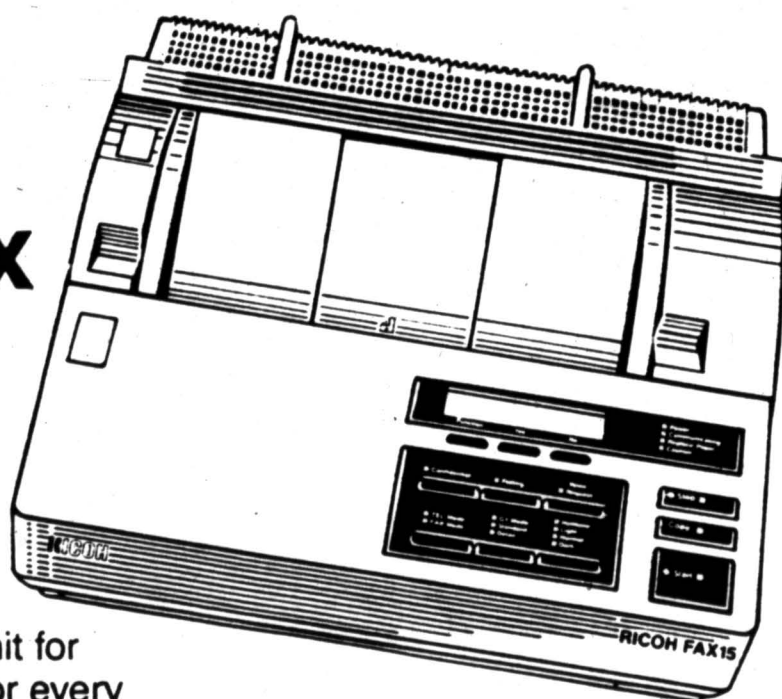

Britton completely redesigned the kitchen of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Chavez of Tijeras, New Mexico, who won out over 38,000 applicants vying to have their kitchen redone.

In the course of her work, which took 2½ months, Britton altered ceilings, replaced vertical barriers, windows and doors, installed new appliances and fixtures.

The firm provides public seminars, corporate trainings, on-site management consultation, public relations and marketing services.

Decision on design codes near

Increasing setback requirements from 3 feet on the sideyards and increase back and front setbacks of homes. All the councilmembers, with the exception of Elinor Laiolo, who said she is still studying all the issues, said they were interested in increasing the required setbacks.

The current 3-foot setbacks are believed by most of the councilmembers to have generated the "tunnel-like" effect between houses. That has been a concern of the council's since the review of the residential district code began.

Additional setbacks for second stories. All of the councilmembers, except Laiolo, said they were interested in requiring an additional setback on the second story of a house.

Increasing open space requirements. In conjunction with that, the council needs to determine its definition of open space.

Currently, open space can include driveways, pathways and decks. The council has discussed changing that definition to only landscapable areas.

The smaller-than-average lot size found in Carmel has led to a dilemma for the city council, particularly in face of the complaints councilmembers have received about some of the newer homes in Carmel that are built out to the maximum.

The council has been trying to answer the question of whether the city should permit what are normal family-sized homes in other cities on Carmel's smaller lots or should it reduce the maximum square footage permitted in an effort to retain the Carmel cottage atmosphere? A reduction in house size, it has been argued in the meetings, will eliminate families from moving to the city.

The council has discussed requiring 50 percent open space — landscapable area — and possibly relying on that criterion to maintain the village in a forest ambience rather than changing other sections of the code.

The floor area allowed and setbacks would remain the same, but the house would have to be designed to leave 50 percent open space.

"It would short circuit a lot of planning confusion," Councilmember Bob Fischer said.

"My feeling is that it would be a lot simpler if we just say from now until eternity, there has to be 50 percent open space on the lot," Grace said.

But White believes that both size restrictions and open space is required.

"I'm at 40 percent lot coverage and 50 percent open space," White said. "I don't believe that design review alone reduces the appearance of bulk of a house."

"I'm leaning toward reducing the size of the houses but I'm not sure I want to reduce it to 35 percent," Wright said. "As for the 50 percent open space, that would depend on the definition. I don't know if (requiring 50 percent open space) can stand alone."

"I think that following the rule of thumb, that driving down the street everything is fine then suddenly you say 'Oh my, what is that?' about something so large it looks like it's in its neighbors yard."

During the R-1 discussions, Wright has maintained that Carmel will not be Carmel if it continues to try to accommodate every three-bedroom home.

"I'm not at all optimistic. I believe that in 30 years, there will be very few Carmel cottages. Now we have shacks in Carmel, I won't dispute that at all. But there are cottages under 1,000 square feet that if they are gone, the town will be different."

TAKE MY WORD FOR IT

By D. Patrick Gallagher

Snafu

IMAGINE, IF you will, the foreign visitor listening to this conversation at the next table in a Carmel restaurant.

"Well this is a fine kettle of fish. Absolutely everything has gone haywire on this trip."

"You can't blame me for this fiasco. You're the one who left me in the lurch and let everything go to pot."

"Oh, now I'm to blame for the snafu. If I'm on the spot now, you're the one who'll be on the carpet when we get back."

To foreigners the conversation must be incomprehensible, or the assumption might be made that these people, too, are foreign visitors speaking some strange mother tongue of their own.

The variety of phrases we use in ordinary conversation is bewildering to more than just our guests from abroad. Among those employed in the example conversation, are a sample of places we would rather not be, things we prefer not to create and conditions we would rather not endure.

A fine kettle of fish, meaning a muddled situation, is of Scottish origin. A very popular outing for the Scots is a picnic which includes a kettle of fish. The fish, usually salmon or trout, are caught from the stream nearest the picnic site and cooked in a large kettle. It is somewhat reminiscent of a New England clam bake. Since picnics are often chaotic this term has come to mean the opposite of how its sounds.

When something goes haywire, it is fouled up. This phrase appears to have originated in the logging camps of the Northwest. In the remote camps, the teamsters would save the wire from the bales of hay to mend a broken hame-strap or to replace a link in a broken chain. The same baling wire might be used by the cooks to hang their ladles, or to dry clothes and even to hold the old stoves together. In time, a camp notoriously sloppy with this form of patchwork mending came to be known as a "haywire camp."

As age creeps up on us, we do what we can to avoid going to pot. Our present-day meaning, when applied to ourselves, usually means "pot-bellied." The term probably began with the village Smithy who kept an iron pot near the forge. Broken pieces of metal, or anything which could not be melted down and used again, went into this pot as refuse. Going to pot meant it was useless.

The creation of a fine Venetian glass bottle is an arduous task, for tradition and price demand that it be perfect in every way. If, during the blowing, the slightest flaw is detected, the glass-blower turns the bottle into a common flask, which in Italian is called a "fiasco." So, today, a fiasco is anything gone wrong. Too many fiascos and you'll be feeling your dog days. This term is based on the Roman belief that the six to eight hottest days of summer were caused when Sirius, the Dog Star, rose along side the sun and increased the day's heat. They called these cuniculares dies.

Why do we occasionally find ourselves up a blind alley? At one time, a gate or opening in a wall was called an "eye." The absence of such an opening in an alley, sometimes called a "dead end" led to the conclusion the alley was "blind." The biblical phrase, "the eye of the needle," refers to the small gate in the Wall of Jerusalem designed for use by pedestrians and not for camels. The saying, it is more difficult for a rich man to enter heaven, than for a camel to pass through the eye of the needle, refers to this gate.

Being left in the lurch comes to us from the game of cribbage. The game is marked by inserting pegs in two rows of holes in a board, one after another, as the player scores. Once up and down the board completes a game. If one player goes up and then down the board before the other player has gone up, he wins a "lurch," or double game, and his opponent has been left "in the lurch."

Being on the spot has an ominous meaning. It was the practice of hoodlums to identify a specific location in which to kill someone. The victim was then lured to the "spot," and once there, the murder was accomplished. Being on the carpet is less ominous, but never pleasant. In the earliest offices only the boss had carpeting in his work area or office. Being called in to see the boss usually meant an admonishment during which the transgressor stood before the boss's desk "on the carpet."

Another term which comes to mind is beyond the pale, meaning someone who is outside accepted boundaries, be they social, political or legal. It is an Irish expression originating from the British occupation. In the 12th century, when the English first invaded Ireland, they exercised very little authority beyond Dublin and its immediate environs which were referred to as the Pale. Beyond the Pale, it was dangerous to travel unarmed. Snafu is a military expression, which in its more polite form stands for situation normal; all fouled up, which is a fitting summary for this week's topic.

CARMEI MEN PLAN TO BUILD NEW THEATRE

A group of local men are in the process of acquiring property at the southwest corner of Dolores and Seventh Streets, presently used as a parking lot for Nielsen's Grocery, for the site of a motion picture theatre to be called the Carmel Theatre.

Preliminary plans for the 550-seat theatre with off-street parking for employees, prepared by Kip Stewart, have been submitted to the Carmel Planning Commission for consideration by its design review committee, according to Floyd Adams, director of planning.

Plans are for the Carmel Theatre to show mostly domestic films, also some art films, but all will be suitable for family viewing. It will be a home-owned and home-operated venture.

MORE DOWNTOWN APARTMENTS GOAL OF NEW CITY LAW

Final approval of an ordinance created to encourage the development of more apartments in the downtown area squeezed through the Carmel City Council on a 3-2 vote.

Only apartments, offices, motels and non-retail uses will now be allowed on the second floors of commercial buildings.

The new law also decreases the land area requirements for apartments and reduces the parking requirements for the construction of studio apartments.

HATTON CANYON OPTIONS STILL OPEN

Construction of the Hatton Canyon Freeway is not a foregone conclusion, although design studies are underway, an environmental impact review progresses and the California Transportation Commission already has set aside funding for the project in fiscal year 1987-88.

That was the somewhat surprising announcement made Oct. 2 by Ken Jones, CalTrans engineer who is in charge of the design of the proposed freeway.

In a meeting of the Hatton Canyon Freeway Advisory Committee at the Monterey County Courthouse in Monterey, Jones said that when the environmental studies are completed and adopted sometime in 1986 then "we'll decide if we're going to do this (the freeway) or if we're going to do that (widen existing highway)."

Water resource seminar Wednesday

THE MONTEREY Peninsula Water Management District will conduct a seminar on potential wells sites, water salvaging and control burns with experts in the field as guests.

The meeting is at 7 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 18 at Oldemeyer Center, 986 Hildy, Seaside.

Water board members will be able to ask questions and written questions from the public will be accepted.

The seminar is the third in a series for the water district's investigation of small water supply projects to augment the water supply before a major project comes on line.

Emphasis on drama

THE FIRST week of October was a week of drama with an emphasis on hospitality. The drama of entertaining at home, the drama of dining out, the drama of fashions combined with the warmth of animals.

The hospitality mat was out all weekend at the Monterey Conference Center for the sixth annual Tablescapes show.

Tabletop theater, (as I like to call the tablesettings) on the whole were smaller this year, making them, not only special, but more easily viewed at the Preview Gala on Friday night. With 50 fabulous tables there were too many to mention them all.

Themes were varied. Several children's and Halloween parties, Oriental decor, with wedding settings popular. Although many designers chose to do vignettes, the largest display was an ensemble of lovely white wedding tables with real candles burning and bride and groom mannequins created by Jackie Mathis-Craghead and Ruthie Watts. The Monterey Sheraton design by Robert Mikolitch was a tiered wedding cake table 10 feet high with pearls on each plate. Gretchen Hill-Bock did an Irish wedding table in green and white.

Several charming and playful settings for children and one for adults were fun. The stand-out children's setting was the Mad Hatter's Tea Party showing the bottom half of Alice as she climbed through the looking glass where awaiting her was a round tilting tea table and a wonderland tree. Loren and Annelese Moore (children of the T. Scott Moores), created a colorful building block setting with Andrew Kylander and another was a picnic birthday party on the ground with paper figures bobbling about.

Most tables were silent but the frog table (as it was quickly dubbed), had the soothing sounds of frogs talking in the night bringing nature inside with anura amphibians. A playful setting for playful adults. It was charming and held a touch of erotica for those who discovered it. Designed by Sue Blondell and Judith Goldman.

Taylor parties did a great Halloween table with squash ducks with carrot bills and feet.

Oriental themes were chosen by Melissa Taylor and Harvey Kilpatrick and Jill Borden and Barbara Burdick, who did an Oriental setting in memory of the late Jack Keller. Jack did some of the most spectacular tables the first five years of Tablescapes. His outlandish and utterly charming Cats table comes to mind. With his partner and Mrs. Early he helped to raise $150,000 for Hospice by opening his home for auctions and house tours.

Adding drama were: the picture-perfect draped design oozing with country English charm by Mark Lupo; classy setting around a grand piano by Pat Yates and Lynn Bohnen and Festival of Trees reminding us that Christmas is not far away.

Social impresario, Mrs. F. Lee Early, Jr., known as Artie, is the originator of Tablescapes and has been chairperson for six years. Robert Brower, president of the Hospice board, presented Artie with a gold nautilus pendant as a token of appreciation for her dedication to raising funds for Hospice. Tablescapes proceeds this year will benefit Hospice and for the first time the Visiting Nurses Association for chronically ill children.

Tablescapes Honorary Chairman Suzanne Hamilton Lipman, an authority on tabletop designs, gave two lectures during the weekend and there is still more to come. Martha Stewart, who lectured last year, will return Nov. 14th to talk on "Holiday Entertaining" at the Monterey Sheraton. Following her talk she will sign her latest book Martha Stewart's Christmas and Ferrantes Restaurant will offer a special lunch using some of her recipes.

The Earlys will host a dinner to honor Mrs. Stewart in their Monterey home to benefit Hospice. To reserve for the lecture ($25) and for the dinner ($500) call: 649-3888; to reserve for the luncheon, call the Sheraton.

The drama of sitting at tables in the ritual of dining on fine food was the drama of the evening at The Old House in Old Monterey created for the Fall Dinner of the International Wine & Food Society of MP.

The chef de cuisine, Emile Labrousse, exerted a little pressure on the food committee to select his specialty, "Duck Confit with Wild Rice." Judging from the quiet that wettled in after it was served, it proved to be a right decision. Courses preceeding the main dish were well thought-out by hosts Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Wandke and their food consultant, Mrs. Thomas Ainsworth.

The evening began with classical guitar music by Jeffrey Workman, social greetings, and magnums of bubbly Domaine Chandon Brut N.V. Napa and salmon mousse canapes. The dinner began with Castroville artichoke cream soup which was an adventure for the chef.

"It takes courage for a chef from Southwest France to prepare a local favorite," he told the guests later. He also explained that the soup's general preparation was made from reduced chicken broth with cream in which the leeks and artichokes swam. It was topped at the last moment with fresh chive. C'était excellente. Delicious prawns in Dijon mustard sauce with tarragon was cleared from happy palates with pear sorbet.

The duck confit (confit means preserve), was carefully prepared from an Old World recipe which must be followed precisely. Confit is mellow and very different from roast duck. It is very tasty due to overnight curing with seasonings and requires rendering the fat to cover the quartered fowl as it cures for a longer period of time. With each luscious bit I wished for more details and the courage to attempt it in my own kitchen.

The spinach salad vinaigrette with toast points had thinly sliced almonds hidden in the leaves. Superb. The menu was topped off with warm apple tart with honey ice cream. Another American concession by the chef.

Dirk van der Burch, president of the W & F Society asked Norbert Mirassou to fill in as sommelier for Dr. William Snell. Mr. Mirassou gave comments on the Renaissance Sauvignon Blanc '87 which is made north of Yuba City at 1,700 to 2,300 feet and billed as the most beautiful winery in California. The Rutherford Ranch Cabernet Sauvignon '77, Napa, he found beautifully made and aged but produced with grapes that were picked before the optimum sugar level was reached.

Remember, if you are crazy for duck confit you know where to find it. The Old House Restaurant.

Drama on a large scale featured people, pets, apparel and art. While the advertised star, Kim Novak, did not show up to model (due to a film commitment), she did send a llama to the "Celebration of Animals in Art & Life: What a Wonderful World," held outside in a tent behind the Carmel Valley Country Club.

Wonderful World brought wonderful sunny skies and everyone would have been content to sip champagne and bask in the warmth but the SPCA of Monterey County Inc. (A Humane Society) had much more in mind.

An al fresco art show featuring animals dotted the lawn before going on the auction block during the "Fashion Fanfare! People, Pets and Apparel." Mary Lou Harcharic and Alan Richmond were commentators for the fashions and auctioneers for the art. They represented the two major sponsors KSBW-TV8 and KWAV-97FM. Mary Lou is the weekend weather reporter for KSBW and Alan is with KWAV.

Models and clothing shops took the risk for being upstaged by homeless pets waiting for someone to love them enough to take them home from the SPCA Shelter. Oohs and aahs filled the luncheon tent as pet after adorable pet treaded the runway with beautiful and handsome models choreographed by Renee Rolfs. Fashions held their own allure for ladies, children and gentlemen.

Missing on the runway was Ed Haber, who modeled last year. (He did attend, though.) Filling in was good-looking John Lobertini, news reporter for KSBW, in his first SPCA modeling stint.

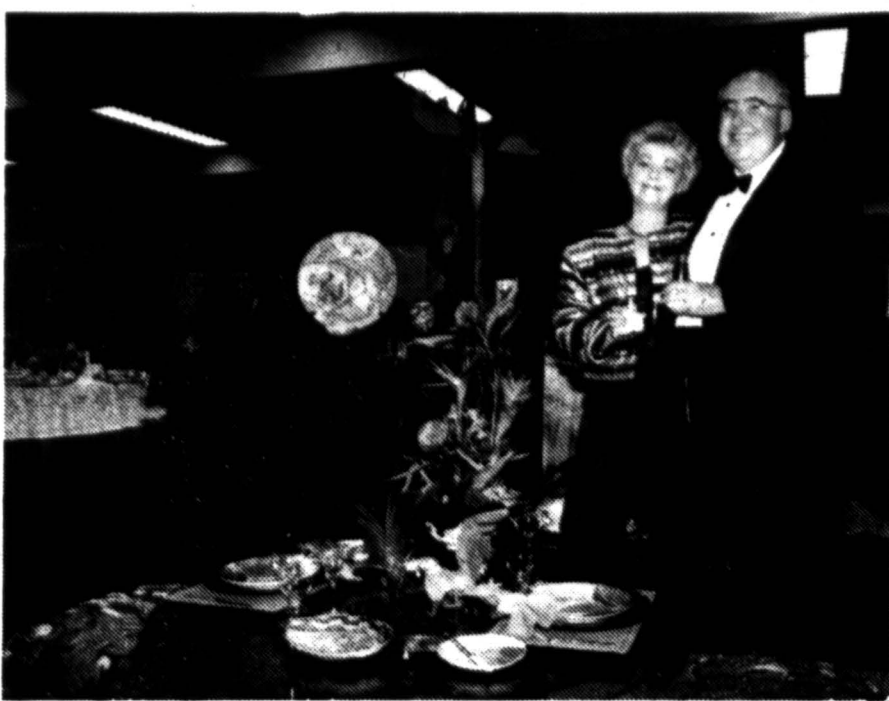

Doris Day was asked to model but said she preferred to sit and be entertained. She loved every pet that came out and I'll bet that she finds homes for some of them.

Part of the entertainment was a ballet by Dana Leidig to start the show with a dance and to end it with flower pedals. Through the courtesy of the Frohman Academy, Toto, the Cowardly Lion, and the Scarecrow also made appearances.

Auctioneers Mary Lou and Alan sold a lady's straw hat for $175. Of course, it had animals painted on it and was modeled by the artist, Lisa Bryan of Carmel. The oil painting A Pavilion for Rulers of the Jungle was snapped up for $375 (by Rita Shugart, I believe. Rita worked hard to make this event a success). An antique French basket to carry a pet brought in 300 SPCA $$$.

Many people were surprised that Richard Ward, SPCA executive director, not only made a good model but donated

"JIM DIED TODAY"

Around the corner I have a friend
In this great city that has no end;
Yet days go by and weeks rush on,
and before I know it a year has gone,
And I never see my old friend's face,
For life is a swift and terrible race.
He knows I like him just as well
As in the days when I rang his bell
And he rang mine. We were younger then; But now we are busy, tired men—
Tired with playing a foolish game;
Tired with trying to make a name.
"Tomorrow", I say; "I'll call on Jim
Just to show him I'm thinking of him."
But tomorrow comes and tomorrow goes;
And the distance between us grows and grows. Around the corner—yet miles away. "Here's a telegram, Sir"—
Jim died today.

All donations are fully tax deductible and go for cancer research and services to patients.

ENTRE NOUS. The first concert of the Monterey Bay Chamber Orchestra was a huge artistic success. Maestro Haymo Taeuber celebrated 21 years of inspired musical service to Monterey County by conducting for the first time since 1984. In what he called his farewell performance he led the Monterey Bay Chamber Orchestra at Sunset Center. The audience stood with the orchestra as he entered and gave him five standing ovations at the end of the concert. It was truly a musically rewarding evening which gratified the MBCO Association board members and president Dr. Ron Weitzman. Vice president Morley Brown was in charge of the reception in the Maestro's honor following the concert...The giant-sized red/white/blue invitations for "A Grand Gala By the Bay" on Oct. 27 are out. The Monterey History and Art Association is honoring Virginia Stanton in the Doubletree DeAnza Ballroom. Tickets are $150 per and apparently are the hottest tickets of the fall season...The Carmel Heritage Society and the Carmel Foundation are richer because of birdlovers Don Propstra and Rob Lane, who held a party and auction in their Carmel home on Saturday evening. Craig Hemphill auctioned 40 specially designed birdhouses...MCCC received $7,500 from the David & Lucile Packard Foundation for the Professional Artists in Schools Program. This PAS program started in Salinas in 1988 and with the Packard grant it will reach children in South County and the Monterey Peninsula with hands-on workshops, teaching such diverse projects as Native American beadwork, play production, circle dancing, learning to read and sing music by sight...Next Monday (the 16th) the Book Club of CA, 312 Sutter St., S.F., will hold a reception from 5-7 for A Book of Gaelic Airs collected by Una Jeffers and illustrated by Robinson Jeffers. Thought you might like to pop in if you are in big ole San Fran.

SEA OTTERS/OIL SPILL SUBJECT OF MEETING

"Sea Otters and the Alaska Oil Spill: Lessons for California" is the theme for speakers at the Friends of the Sea Otter annual meeting Saturday, Oct. 14 at 7 p.m. at the Monterey Bay Aquarium auditorium. In addition a boat tour to observe sea otters in the Monterey Bay is planned for 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 15. Both events are open to the public.

In the wake of one of the world's largest oil spills, speakers will share their first-hand experiences with sea otter capture, transport, veterinary treatment and long-term care in Alaska and will discuss how sea otters affected by an oil spill off California's coast might be handled.

Friends of the Sea Otter Scientific Director Dr. Susan Shane begins the program with a brief review of the March 24th Alaska spill and its aftermath.

Dr. Terrie Williams, Sea World Research Institute biologist, will tell about sea otter rescue facilities in Alaska, describing how they operated and how the experience there has provided valuable information for building rescue facilities in California.

Monterey Bay Aquarium veterinarian Dr. Tom Williams, who spent several months in Alaska rehabilitating oiled otters, will describe causes and patterns of mortality and veterinary advances made in Alaska.

Reed Smith who is working for the California Department of Fish & Game on oil spill contingency planning, rounds out the program with a presentation on the current state of readiness for handling a major oil spill off the California coast.

Next on the schedule is the Sunday otter outing at 3 p.m. with Chris' Fishing Fleet on Fisherman's Wharf, Monterey. Tickets may be purchased at the Friends of the Sea Otter Center in the Crossroads, Carmel prior to the event, at the

Going to the birds

CRAIG HEMPHILL, a professional auctioneer, held aloft a custom-built deluxe birdhouse during the "Songbird Preview" fund-raising benefit at the newly remodelled Carmel home of Rob Lane and Don Propstra. The benefit raised more than $4,000 for local organizations, including Carmel Heritage ($2,000); The Tor House Foundation ($1,230); The Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society ($630); and the Community Foundation of Monterey County ($140). More than 100 guests showed up to bid for 40 birdhouses, the highest bid bringing in $210. Lane and Propstra said they decided to hold the event as a way to give back to the community, seeking to preserve the special character and quality of Carmel. (Tom McCartney photo.)

BUY Peninsula FIRST

By Linda G. Horning

Come to a festival

SORRY FOR the interruption in this column's feature of local radio stations (six have been featured in recent columns; the 14 remaining stations will be featured in future columns), but hey! since the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce Trade Fair and Business Mixer will be "happening" in a mere three weeks, and since the whole event has been created JUST FOR YOU, the entire peninsula from local residents to the business community, I simply MUST take this opportunity to give you the low-down on the event! Which, by the way, is scheduled for Thursday, Nov. 2 from 4 to 8:30 p.m. at the Monterey Conference Center with admission set at a mere $5, a bargain at twice the price! Here's why:

"At press time" (I've always wanted to say that!), many area businesses have generously agreed to co-sponsor the fall festival — get a load of this list: American Eagle Airlines, ALL Ventura Publishing Services, Del Monte Shopping Center, Dreyer's Ice Cream, Instant Copy & Printing, Monterey Brewing Company, Old Fisherman's Grotto, Pacific Monthly Magazine (which won an "outstanding booth" award at last Spring's Fair), TCBY Yogurt and Trucksis Enterprises. There will be a special co-sponsor booth, where you'll find free samples, gifts and information about these local businesses.

I should mention that last Spring's Trade Fair was a sell-out in both booths and attendees. We had in excess of 80 booths and I believe in excess of 1,000 people in attendance. This prompted some smart person or persons to arrange to have the current fair at the larger facilities offered by the Monterey Conference Center at Portola Plaza, which accommodates 120 booths, nearly all of which have been sold as of this printing.

A fabulous line-up of door prizes have been received, but qualifying for these prizes is really tough! All you have to do is show up, fill out your name and address on your ticket, wander among the booths meeting local business owners and gathering information about your neighborhood and peninsula businesses, enjoy free lavish refreshments, free samples and gifts, music, festivities, friendly socializing, and be listening when prize winners are announced. Tough duty, huh?

Oh, I guess this would be a good time to mention some of those fabulous door-prizes! How about round-trip airline tickets offered by American Eagle, Sky West and United Express airlines? Or a $100 savings bond from Monterey County Bank, a case of (six magnums) of chardonnay from La Reina Winery, a $100 gift certificate toward printing from Commercial Press, gallery dolls from Dolls and Dreams, dinner for two at Los Laureles Lodge, event tickets from Laguna Seca, a romantic overnight stay at the new Rosedale Inn, and answering machine from Dover Elevators, a printing gift certificate from KP graphics, kayaking and bicycling from Adventures-by-the-Sea (which won an "outstanding booth" award at last Spring's Fair), leather items from Stefan Mann Leathergoods, a romantic overnight stay in one of the Inns by the Sea, and more prizes from Call America, the Mamography Center, Business Research & Communications, Central Coast College, and Cellular One.

In the next column, I will update the prize list and provide more information on the booth participants. In the meantime, keep an eye and an ear out for reminders on local radio and TV stations, mark your calendars for Nov. 2, and since I'm co-chairing the event, feel free to call me, Linda G. Horning, at 625-1971 or call Paddy MacDonald, co-chairman, (Realtor with Del Monte Realty), at 655-0300. We look forward to hearing from you!

(This bi-weekly column is a service of the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce "Buy Peninsula First" campaign, a joint project of the Economic Development Committee and the Small Business Committee. Readers are invited to submit their thoughts and suggestions in writing to "Buy Peninsula First," c/o the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce, PO Box 1770, Monterey, CA 93940.)

OBITUARIES

Wm. Weinmann Durney

Private family services took place Oct. 9 for William Weinmann Durney, president and chairman of the board of Durney Vineyards in Carmel Valley, who died Oct. 6 at his home in Pebble Beach. He was 69.

Born May 26, 1920 in Alameda, he received a bachelor's degree from the University of Santa Clara. He served in the Army from 1942 to 1945 and on reserve until 1947. During his military service he was assigned as port commander in Seward, Alaska, and was the U.S. Armed Forces representative to Canada. A captain, he was awarded the Soldier's Medal, American Theater, for bravery.

In 1954, he and his wife, Dorothy Kingsley-Durney, purchased a 1,200-acre ranch in Carmel Valley and named it Rancho del Sueno. They decided to create a wine estate in the European tradition and produce high-quality wines.

In 1968 they planted their first wine grapes on a small 20-acre test plot, selling grapes to such wineries as Mirassou, Gemello and San Martin. When the wines made from these grapes began winning gold medals, the Durneys built their own winemaking facility, becoming the first successful wine-producing venture in the Carmel area.

Also prominent in the seafood industry, Mr. Durney was the former chairman of the board and president of Oceans of the World, Inc., and Carnation Seafoods. He was a member of the National Fisheries Institute; Frozen Food Association; Grape Growers Association; and was a founder of Monterey Wine Country Associates.

He was also a member of the Chevalier du Tastevin and Commanderie de Bordeaux in France, Bohemian Club in San Francisco, California Club in Los Angeles, and Beverly Hills Wine and Food Society.

Locally, he was a member of Old Capitol Club, Beach and Tennis Club, and Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church in Carmel Valley.

He was a member of the Knights of Malta; Military and Hospitaller Order of Saint Lazarus of Jerusalem; grand prior of International Order of Saint Hubertus; and served on the fund committee of Saint John's Hospital in Los Angeles and Marymount College.

He was president of Sodality & Sanctuary Society at the University of Santa Clara, a trustee of the Los Angeles County Museum of Natural History, former chairman of the Republican Finance Committee for Business & Industry in Los Angeles, and a former trustee of Marymount College in Los Angeles and Santa Catalina School in Monterey.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by his mother Marguerite Weinmann of Santa Cruz; three sons, Michael Durney of Carmel and Dennis Durney and Terry Kingsley-Smith, both of Los Angeles; two daughters, Susan Mickelson of La Canada and Christine Armanasco of Carmel; two brothers, Robert Weinmann of Santa Rosa and Ken Weinmann of Santa Cruz; eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Burial took place in San Carlos Cemetery.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions be sent to the National Wildlife Federation or Ducks Unlimited.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

Older Americans fear crime more than other serious problems, according to the Council of Better Business Bureaus. It warns that "some unscrupulous companies prey on the fears of the elderly to sell expensive burglar detection systems with recurring monthly service charges." The Council advises elderly people to ask the local police for suggestions on crime protection. If the police recommend installation of an intruder alarm system, ask for names of reputable companies and ask the local Better Business Bureau for reliability reports on companies being considered.

Who make the best drivers for the luxury stretch limousines that are rented for high-level business meetings and special occasions? "Believe it or not, the guys over 60 are my best men," says the manager of a limousine service in Pleasantville, New York. Take James Wilson, 64, described as "polite, attentive, reliable, accommodating, dedicated" — and more. A regular client in the entertainment industry often asks Wilson to play an audition tape of a new rock band on the car's cassette player — and give his opinion.

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

Down with bureaucrats and their mumbojumbo

Carmel Pine Cone
Oct. 11, 1979

The other day on an empty chair at the Monterey Airport, I found a satirical broadside called Jim Boren's Mumblepeg or the Voice of the International Association of Bureaucrats.

My modern dictionary defines satire as the use of irony, sarcasm and ridicule in exposing or deriding vice, folly, political hacks etc.

Here is an example: "For years we bureaucrats have profudified our forms, fuzzified our regulations and orbited our reports in order to keep the people from finding out what we were doing. This ivordational obfuscation has served as our protective screen, our security blanket.

"Has the time come for us to lift the blanket and let the public have a brief peek into their governments on giving process of maturation? This is a rhetorical question which does not wish to elicit a reply."

O Lord, we know that you are just as fed up with bureaucrats and politicians as we are, for their mumbojumbo even has crept into your church. So be pleased to give us a broom big enough and strong enough to start a clean sweep of all these leeches on our body politic and may we begin the job on our own doorstep.

During the recent drought a local politician suggested this simple solution. "Why don't we melt all the ice cubes?" With this answer he should go far and we hope he does even as far as Sacramento or Washington, D.C.

PINE WHISPERS

noon on Oct. 17 at the First Presbyterian Church, 501 Eldorado St. in Monterey.

Speaker for the event will be Mrs. David Stevenson who will present a talk on "Protect Our Future, Plant a Tree NOW."

The goal of the October meeting is to earn money to supply one acre of reforestation in a selected wilderness area of the state of California. As California depends on good watershed, erosion control and water conservation for its biggest industry, agriculture, reforestation is one method of achieving the water conservation goal, as well as to help clean the air. Reforestation also provides wildlife habitat and a place away from the city for recreation.

The Commodore Sloat Chapter has chosen to purchase one acre of seedlings for the Los Padres National Forest. The National Forest Service will be in charge of the planting. To achieve the funds, members have been busy for the past two months making dried flower arrangements which will be sold at the October meeting. Mrs. Carl Hering, Conservation chairman, and Mrs. Melvin Blevens, have overseen the project. Luncheon hostess is Mrs. Duncan Todd, first vice regent. For reservations, call LaVerne Underwood, 372-1421.

CALIFORNIA RETIRED TEACHERS' LUNCHEON OCT. 18

California Retired Teachers' Association will meet Wednesday, Oct. 18 at Rancho Canada Golf Club, Carmel Valley, social hour 11 a.m., lunch noon.

Sam Karas, Monterey County supervisor, will speak on Measure B. Question-and-answer period will follow.

Call Novella Nicholson at 659-2172 for reservations by Oct. 16.

STRASSER KAUFFMAN TO ADDRESS CRA

Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman will be the guest speaker at the Carmel Residents Association meeting starting with a 4 p.m. social Thursday, Oct. 19 in the Chapman Room at Sunset Center in Carmel.

tund. Other topics will include the Hatton Canyon Freeway, illegal road-grading on the Murphy property and other issues.

Jeffers inspired 'poet in the grey flannel suit'

By ANNE PAPINEAU

DANA GIOIA, a vanguard among poets, finds himself in the curious position of trying to give Robinson Jeffers his due.

"No major American poet has been treated worse by posterity than Robinson Jeffers," Gioia wrote in The Nation in January 1988.

In that six-page article, Gioia, 38, focused the spotlight on a poet who in his lifetime assiduously avoided publicity. In 1955, seven

That was the beginning. A lover of literature, Gioia went on to study the subject at Stanford and received a master's degree in comparative literature from Harvard. Yet he recalls that in six years of literary study, "not only was no poem of Jeffers ever assigned, his name was never mentioned."

While pursuing his M.B.A., Gioia finally learned more of Robinson Jeffers.

"What I really wanted to do was write," Gioia explained. "I felt I could continue to write while working at a non-literary job, so I went to Stanford Business School." Today, the poet works for General Foods.

"I invited the poet Radcliffe Squires out to Stanford to give a reading, and he said he wanted to drive down to Carmel and see Tor House," Gioia recalls.

They called the poet's son, Donnan, from a pay phone, and were admitted to Tor House, although it was still simply a private home.

"At that point, I have to admit that even though I consider myself quite well read, I had only read one or two of Jeffers' poems."

His interest piqued, Gioia found an anthology and began to read the works of Robinson Jeffers.

"I figured here was somebody who wasn't read much anymore, someone who was famous in the '20s and '30s. I began reading and was simply knocked over by how good he was. I was astonished that a poet who was this good had been ignored by universities and critics."

Gioia attended a revival of Jeffers' Medea on Broadway.

"I was just flabbergasted. And a curious thing went on, the way the show was positioned on Broadway, you could hardly tell Robinson Jeffers had anything to do with it. It said 'Zoe Caldwell in Medea.' I decided at that point, I had to read through Jeffers."

The poet has found pleasure in his self-imposed assignment. And he also formulated his own theories about why Jeffers goes ignored, particularly when compared with his contemporaries, such as Pound, Eliot, Cummings, Frost, Moore, Williams and Stevens.

"Jeffers' poems are clear, powerful and source of inspiration for narrative poetry during this week's Robinson Jeffers Festival.

pretty much unambiguous," he observed. "Jeffers' poems focus their attention on the outer world rather than the inner world. The poets who are most prized right now by academic literary critics are writers such as Wallace Stevens, who write mainly about the world of the imagination."

A further handicap to Jeffers' legacy has been the fact that he spent his adult life in California. As Gioia noted in The Nation, "Eleven years once passed between visits to San Francisco."

"He was never a part of the Eastern literary establishment. Basically, poets and writers make that web of human connections, which sustain one's reputation," Gioia observed.

Through the Robinson Jeffers Tor House Foundation and individuals who know and love his writings, Jeffers' work is winning added admirers. In fact, Gioia credits him as being "the godfather" of the new American poetry movement lead by "the poet in the grey flannel suit." This movement has two names, Expansive Poetry and the New Formalism.

"This is a movement among a group of younger poets which is reviving rhyme and meter and narrative," Gioia said. "When I was in college, it was considered unacceptable to write in form. It was also considered unacceptable to write narrative poems; they weren't supposed to tell stories."

"One of my interests in Jeffers was he was one of the great narrative poets, and one reason Jeffers is dismissed by university critics is all his longer poems are narrative poems."

Dana Gioia will discuss Jeffers as a source of inspiration for narrative poetry and will speak of the new generation of narrative poets as part of this week's Robinson Jeffers Festival.

His talk, "The Revival of the Narrative Poem," will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 14, in Lecture Forum 103 at Monterey Peninsula College, 980 Fremont St., Monterey. Admission is $20 general, $5 for students. For information or reservations, call Tor House, 624-1813.

years before Jeffers' death, Horace Gregory called the builder of Tor House and author of Roan Stallion, Give Your Heart to the Hawks and Tamar and Other Poems "poet without critics."

Jeffers' work has received fresh attention thanks to the efforts of "the poet in the grey flannel suit." Gioia, who is leader of a controversial movement in American poetry, earned that title since he is both poet and businessman.

"It was a discovery in stages," Gioia said of Robinson Jeffers in a telephone interview from his home at Hastings-on-Hudson, N.Y. "The first time I heard of Jeffers was on vacation in Carmel. I was 12 or 13 and I went to a store on Ocean Avenue and saw a book or two of Jeffers'. I noticed a picture of Tor House, and then I saw Tor House walking on the beach one day."

Jeffers festival draws academics, poetry fans

BOOKSIGNINGS, banquets and a poetry walk are among the events that highlight the Robinson Jeffers Festival, to be celebrated Friday through Sunday, Oct. 13-15.

Those in attendance at the annual event will have the opportunity to meet the United States Poet Laureate, Howard Nemerov, winner of the Pulitzer Prize for poetry in 1978.

Other distinguished speakers include Dana Gioia, called "the Poet in the Grey Flannel Suit" since he works for a major American corporation and was chosen by Esquire for the first register of "Men and Women Under 40 Who are Changing the Nation." Gioia will speak on "The Revival of the Narrative Poem."

James Karman, professor of English, is the author of Robinson Jeffers, Poet of California, and the soon-to-be-published Critical Essays on Robinson Jeffers. He will speak on "Jeffers and His Critics."

Tor House Fellow Robert Zaller will speak on "Land and Value: Jeffers as an Environmentalist." Zaller received a Guggenheim Fellowship in 1985 and is the author of The Cliffs of Solitude: A Reading of Robinson Jeffers. He is also the editor of the current A Tribute of His Peers: Elegies for Robinson Jeffers.

The Jeffers Festival is co-sponsored by the Robinson Jeffers Tor House Foundation and the Monterey Peninsula College English Department. Events are set around the peninsula. Proceeds will go to preserve Tor House and Hawk Tower, and their gardens on Carmel Point. Proceeds also help assist the foundation as a center for poetry and literature, perpetuating the Jeffers literary legacy by providing a forum and bringing to Carmel young writers and scholars as well as those more established and well known.

The festival will open with a book-signing reception from 5 to 7:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 13 at the Thunderbird in the Barnyard, Carmel. The reception offers the opportunity to visit with festival authors and to attend the presentation by Stanford University Press of Volume Two of The Collected Poetry of Robinson Jeffers. The Tor House Foundation will present its publication of The Tribute of His Peers: Elegies for Robinson Jeffers.

Succeeding festival events are scheduled as follows:

Saturday, Oct. 14

From 10 a.m. to noon, poet Dana Gioia will speak on Jeffers' influence and "The Revival of the Narrative Poem." This forum is presented 10 a.m. to noon in Lecture Forum 103 at Monterey Peninsula College, 980 Fremont St., Monterey. Moderator is MPC philosophy professor Alison Schwyzer.

Concluding the Saturday morning program will be James Karman, who will speak of "Jeffers and His Critics."

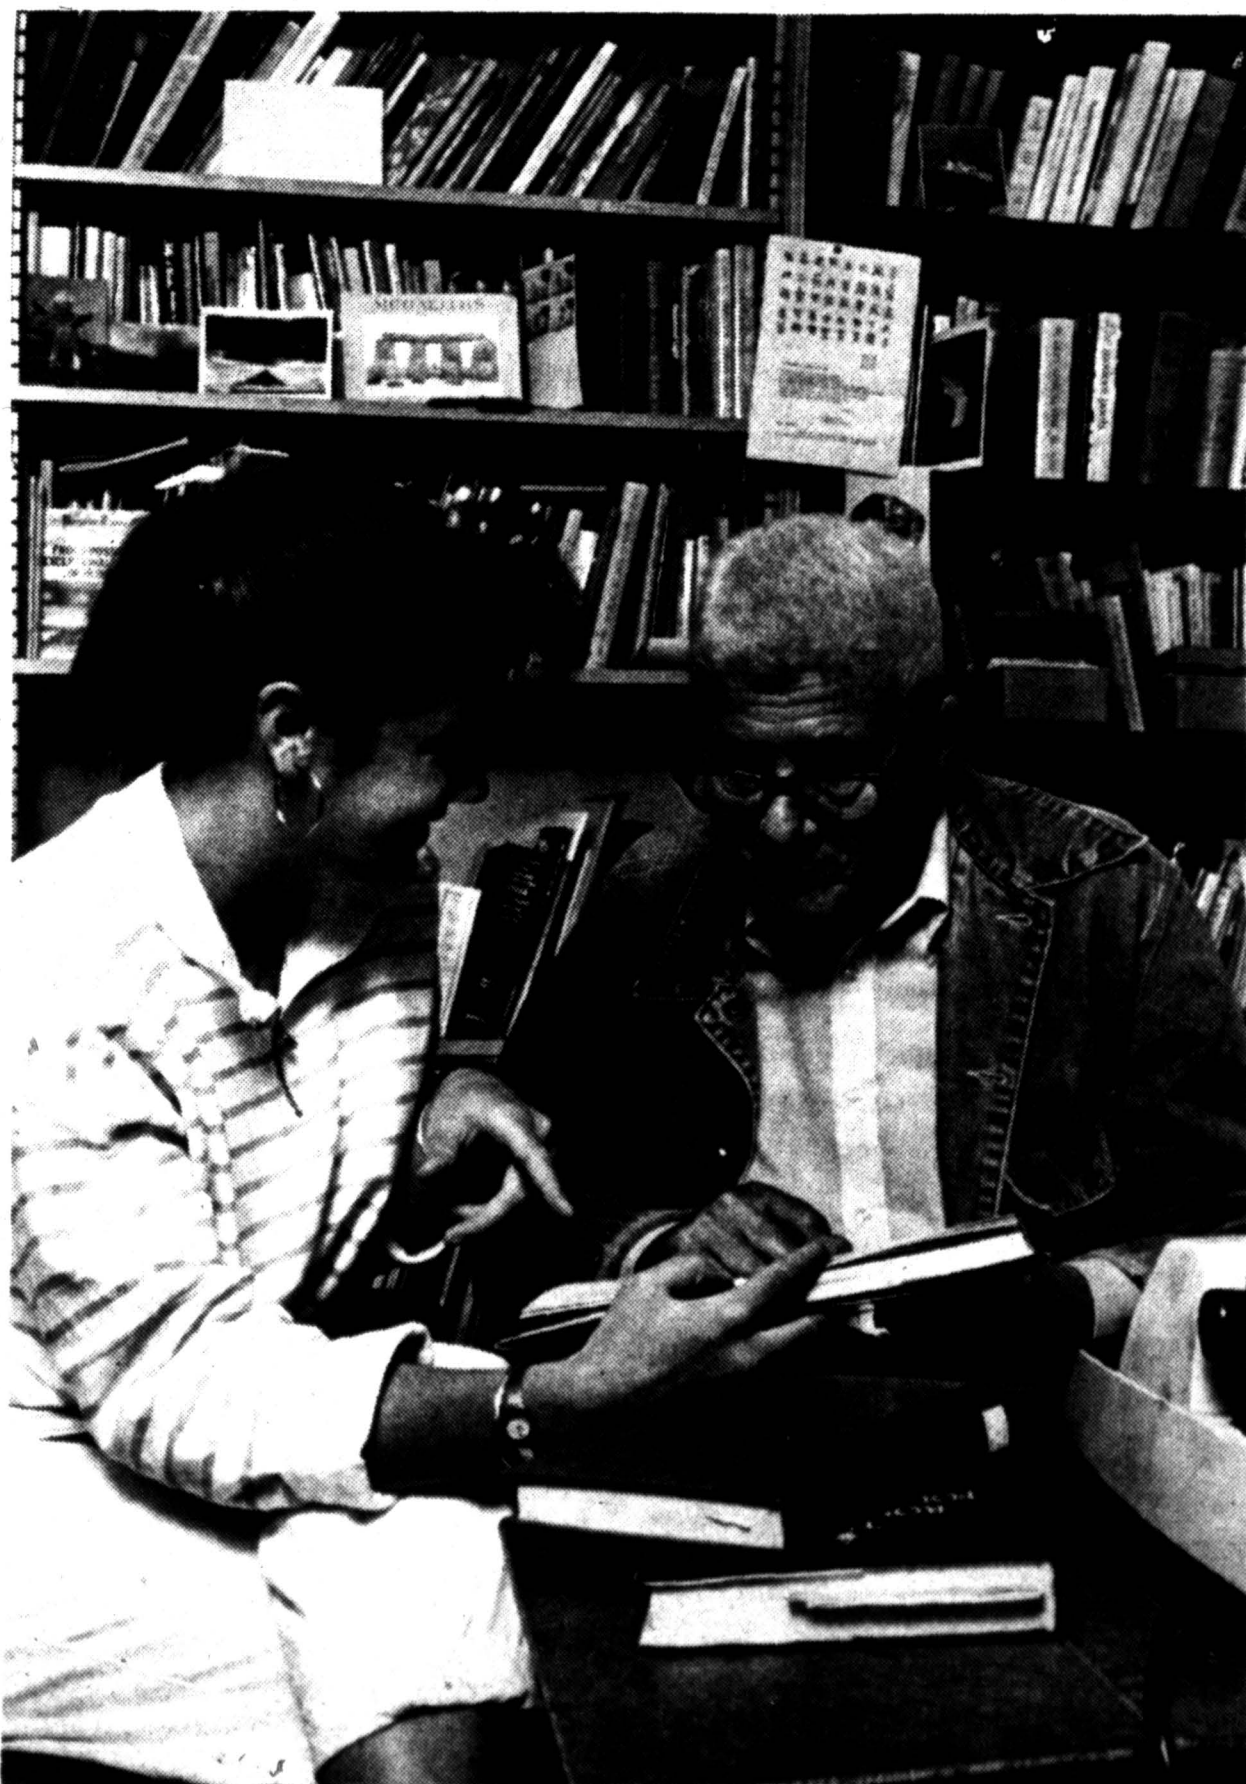

From 2 to 4 p.m. Saturday, also in Lecture Forum 103, historian Robert Zaller will address "Land and Value: Jeffers as an Environmentalist." The afternoon session will conclude with time for audience participation, and the chance to ask questions of several panelists.

Admission to the seminars is $20 each, $5 for students.

The annual Festival Banquet will begin with a social hour at 6:30 p.m. Saturday in the Carmel Mission Inn, Highway 1 at Rio Road, Carmel. It will feature an after-dinner talk and poetry reading by United States Poet Laureate Howard Nemerov.

Nemerov is chancellor of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and a

THEATER REVIEW

By Joe Guzaitis

Private lives, idle lives

IT'S ALMOST 60 years since Private Lives made its debut. Critics called it "delightfully daring" and "iridescent" but also "brittle," "thin," and "tenuous." Coward responded by saying that "There is actually more to the play than this, but on the whole not very much." To taunts of being a lightweight thinker and society gadabout, he would brag of his "incurable superficiality." Here was a man who knew exactly what he was about. A man who could write a play in a few days of solid concentration and blot only four lines (Blithe Spirit). Also a stage and screen actor, short story and song writer, who admitted merely to having a "talent to amuse." He bested his critics by agreeing with them, somewhere, he smiles still.

In Private Lives we are amused by two middle-aged British couples who meet by chance at a honeymoon resort. Sibyl's new husband Elyot and Victor's new bride Amanda are ex-spouses. As the play opens, the new partners are compulsively curious about each one's ex-spouse and, in general, are seeing their honeymoons and new marriages deteriorate from this and other tensions. The ex-spouses, left alone, realize they are still in love and have both made a bad move in marrying again and decide to run away from the situation to Paris to pick up where they left off. There they try hard to overcome the problems that drove them to divorce in the first place, but this doesn't work for long. Sibyl and Victor, meanwhile, have been together for several days tracking down Elyot and Amanda. They have developed a relationship of sorts. The final confrontation is surprising and has more than one twist. The symmetry, the dialog, the behavioral reversals alone, make the play a pleasure to view time and time again.

However, although robust in many ways at 60, the play seems naive in several ways from today's vantage point. We know that poking around in a spouse's prior marriage is a mine field. We know that physical violence or the threat of it is anathema in a relationship. The play accepts these and other uneasy premises matter-of-factly.

Perhaps this is part of the "jagged sophistication" that Elyot feels infuses their era. However, we know that people get injured on jagged things, sophisticated or not. What we see that the characters don't, is that a life of idleness turns our hunger for mischief in/on ourselves. With nothing but each other as the focus of our energies, it is inevitable that we devour ourselves and each other in some way. For these people, it is the tension between romantic ideals and human foibles. (One critic suggests that Coward has hit upon a way to have the comfort of fidelity and the adventure of promiscuity at the same time — keep falling in and out of love with the same person!) I'm convinced that if Elyot were a butterfly collector and Amanda did some volunteer work, things would be much better for them.

Marlie Avant's Amanda is superbly wrought. Her moves, her accent, her poise is excellent. She understands the part thoroughly and is a delight to watch as she plays it out. Connie Erickson plays Sibyl very well, making the flighty socialite believable at all times.

Jim Jensen gives us a solid Victor. This role is sometimes considered a "throw away" — to the detriment of a production. Nancy Methentis played the quirky housekeeper Louise in the Paris flat.

Harrison Shields plays Elyot and directs the production as well. I'm always nervous when the director is in the cast, much less playing the male lead. In this case, I think Mr. Shields gave a commendable reading of the part but let the production race out of hand occasionally so that it attained a "breathless" quality that I found taxing.

Set design is by Carey Crockett, whose excellent work we have seen a lot of lately. His clever use of a single arc element worked well as an exterior in Act One and, turned around, became the interior of the Parisian flat in Acts Two and Three. Bonnie McIninch is in charge of set and costume design and came up with some very elegant '30s frocks and managed to get some variety and color on the men as well.

Private Lives is staged by the Frohman Academy at the New Wharf Theater. It plays at 8:30 p.m. (note the late start) Fridays and Saturdays, 8 p.m. Sundays through Nov. 12. Call 649-5561 for ticket information, 649-2332 or 372-1373 for reservations.

California Native Plant Society schedules sale

The Monterey Bay Chapter of the California Native Plant Society will present its annual native plant sale from noon to 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 22 at Carmel High School, Highway 1 and Ocean Avenue, Carmel.

If the weather is fair, the large variety of plants, seeds, books and posters will be arranged on the lawn. If it's raining, the sale will take place under cover in the corridors. Experts will be on hand to help answer questions on gardening and plant selection.

Autumn is considered to be the best time to plant California native plants and seeds.

They take advantage of the winter rains to develop strong root systems. Native plants are like any other plants that start life in a can — they need regular water the first year or so. But once established, California natives can withstand our long dry season with very little additional water.

This year's sale will feature many drought-tolerant species along with others that are adaptable to common garden settings and to container culture.

Come a bit early to preview the plants. The hard-to-find and unusual ones disappear shortly after the starting whistle.

MUSIC CORNER

By Nathalie Plotkin

Piquant musical experience

IT'S AN UNUSUAL event when the Chamber Music Society members leave Carmel's Sunset Theater smiling and laughing, particularly after a program of 20th century wind music. Opening the society's 22nd season, the Mladi Wind Quintet with their technically expert, responsive and witty ensemble playing, made listening to this rarely encountered grouping of instruments (flute, oboe, clarinet, horn and bassoon), a piquant musical experience.

But, the cause of the above-mentioned audience response and the runaway hit of the evening was Mladi's performance of the young American composer Jon Deak's 1985 work "The Bremen Town Musicians Part I." Showing strong familial resemblances to Saint-Saens' "Carnival of the Animals" and Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf" genre, it is an instrumental and spoken retelling of the story of the four cast-out old animals who decide to improve their lot by going to Bremen and becoming musicians.

As an introduction and to take the place of the missing text that was to have been provided, bassoonist and group spokesman John Steinmetz told the story and had the musicians demonstrate their animal voices. The bassoon was the panting, hee-hawing, sad sounding donkey who was going to be made into glue. The wailing horn was the thrown-out dog who was too old to hunt. The screeching clarinet was the manic rooster who was to be used for soup because his voice got on everyone's nerves. The purring, flutter-tongued flute was the cat who overlooked a rat and finally, the sneering, wicked-sounding oboe was all the "evil, nasty, mean, barbaric masters and mistresses who were guilty of these cruelties to the unhappy animals." In a combination of delightfully apropos, fittingly expressive music and with some illustrative and very funny words delivered with split-second precision and hilarious projection, the performance regaled an obviously pleased audience who hadn't known what to expect and who were amply rewarded for daring to stay and find out.

The evening opened with an evocative traversal of Samuel Barber's "Summer Music for Woodwind Quintet" op. 31. Showing careful preparation by the players, the tonal painting, atmospheric colors of a hot, humid Midwestern evening, with an occasional breeze and train whistle, were well conveyed. The differing and individual instrumental timbres required some getting used to. Serious wind instrument music does better in an orchestral setting. The Mladi Quintet is cohesive and musically adept. Their playing showed great care and awareness, but ultimately lacked musical focus.

Also heard was the Poulenc "Sextet for Piano and Woodwind Quintet" with Edith Orloff as guest artist. The first movement is fun-filled music, seemingly reflecting an urban street scene with rhythmic jazzy pulses and making a strong contrast to the American "Summer Music" which preceded it. The Andantino featured well-conceived dialogues between the instruments and a dashing middle section with a Parisian tinge. The Prestissimo began with music hall gaiety and brilliant piano work, but then reversed direction to conclude that broad melodic lines starring the bassoon and horn. The playing, both ensemble and individual was outstandingly skillful and musically intelligent. They managed to make their programming choices remarkably palatable.

As spokesman Steinmetz remarked "In another 12 years, it will be the 21st century and all this 20th century music will be considered old music." For anyone who missed this concert, it will be broadcast on KUSP-FM on Sunday, Dec. 9 at 9 p.m. Try it, you might like it.

BIRDS OF a Feather is the title of this original painting by Carmel artist Mary Titus. Her works can be viewed at the Mary Titus Gallery, in Bonnymead Court, on Lincoln between Ocean and Seventh, Carmel.

Carmel Impressionist showcased at the Mary Titus Gallery

Inspired by her move to Carmel seven years ago, where Mary Titus discovered its endless beauty, Titus creates paintings that are a reflection of her deepest meditational thoughts. She has developed a dreamlike quality in her paintings, further reflecting her spontaneity.

Today, the bulk of her work consists of coastal vistas and landscapes with only vaguely defined horizons. Multi-layered, exquisitely colored skies float easily over misty seas above the stark tree lines. Sometimes a human element enters Titus' swirling scenes. This figurative dimension juxtaposed with almost abstract surroundings has a mystical narrative quality. By combining fantasy and figurative elements, Titus achieves a sense of timelessness.

Manipulating water media comes easily to Titus, who paints with a mixture of wet gouache and acrylic or water colors. She has mastered a wide range of techniques to create texture and mood, constantly experimenting with new ideas to enlarge the repertoire.

Mary Titus has won numerous prizes and awards, the most notable being First Place and People's Choice in the West Coast Parade of Winners in 1982. Often she conducts workshops at her studio and has made personal television appearances in Florida to demonstrate her techniques.

Recently Mary Titus had the honor of being the resident artist to go to Alaska on a research expedition.

Spain, China and London are homes to some of Mary Titus' work, as well as private corporate collections throughout the United States.

The works of this Carmel Impressionist can be viewed at the Mary Titus Gallery, located in Bonnymead Court, on Lincoln between Ocean and Seventh, Carmel. For additional information, call 626-8628.

Relationship issues seminar offered by Friends of C.G. Jung

THE FINAL session of the "Relationship Issues Seminar" will focus on the question, "What is my fate in bed?" — or sex as an expression of hidden creativity.

To be held at 7 p.m. Friday, Oct. 13, at All Saints' Church, Ninth and Dolores, Carmel, the seminar is sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Friends of C.G. Jung.

Participants will also be guided on inner work on oneself alone, work in dyads, and experience in the movement channel with the "walking" exercise.

Inspired by Jung's comment that "What's happening in bed says something about your relationship," the plan for the session was designed for practical application: "How can the creative energy of sexual activity become a guide for my tapping into the hidden potentials of my personality?"

The public is invited to this and all other events sponsored by the Friends of C.G. Jung. This is an informal collection of people who are finding that the mutual sharing of enthusiasm for the ideas of the Swiss physician helps them make easy translations of those ideas into their everyday lives.

Discussion leaders for the session are Tony and Terri Schaurer and Nancy L. Bernhard — all of Carmel Valley.

Prior registration is suggested but not required, as is a modest donation to help defray expenses.

For further information, call 659-0684, or write to the Friends at 899 Drake Ave., Monterey.

Impact of Alaskan oil spill on sea otters addressed

"SEA OTTERS and the Alaska Oil Spill: Lessons for California" is the theme for speakers at the Friends of the Sea Otter annual meeting set Saturday, Oct. 14 at 7 p.m. at the Monterey Bay Aquarium auditorium. In addition a boat tour to observe sea otters in the Monterey Bay is planned for 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 15. All are invited to both events. Admission is free.

In the wake of one of the world's largest oil spills, speakers will share their first-hand experiences with sea otter capture, transport, veterinary treatment and long-term care in Alaska and will discuss how to handle sea otters should an oil spill occur off California's coast.

Friends of the Sea Otter Scientific Director Susan Shane begins the program with a brief review of the March 24 Alaska spill and its aftermath.

California Department of Fish and Game biologist Jack Ames will show slides of oiled sea otters captured and transported to rescue centers in Alaska and will give his views on the capture of otters during an oil spill off the California coast.

Terrie Williams, Sea World Research Institute biologist, will tell about sea otter rescue facilities in Alaska, describing how they operated and how the experience there has provided valuable information for building rescue facilities in California.

Monterey Bay Aquarium veterinarian Tom Williams, who spent several months in Alaska rehabilitating oiled otters, will describe causes and patterns of mortality and veterinary advances made in Alaska.

Reed Smith who is working for the California Department of Fish and Game on oil spill contingency planning, rounds out the program with a presentation on the current state of readiness for handling a major oil spill off the California coast.

Next on the schedule is the Sunday otter outing at 3 p.m. with Chris' Fishing Fleet on Fisherman's Wharf, Monterey. This is the same course given to persons who need state-approved nursing training but is broken into shorter sessions for caregivers to avoid long periods for the patient needing care. Persons who are not yet caregivers are also encouraged to attend so that they will be familiar with the training/skills in case they need it in the future.

The training will give both the caregiver and the care receiver a higher level of "know-how" and confidence.

THE "BEAUTY" being chased by the love-struck dinosaur Godzelda in Dana B. Larrabee's "Godzelda Destroys Salinas" is not Fay Wray, but a teen-ager named Neil Scallopini, in this full-color photo illustration now on display in Monterey.

ADMAN LESTER Krasse tries to tempt Godzelda into a lifetime contract with his agency Krasse Mundane and Fellony in this scene from Salinas writer-artist Dana B. Larrabee's "Monster Country," on display at the Monterey Conference Center.

'Godzelda' wreaks havoc in downtown Monterey

A SERIES of narrative paintings featuring the cartoon dinosaur "Godzelda" running amok in Salinas will be on display in the Alvarado Lobby of the Monterey Conference Center through Dec. 8.

"Godzelda" is 50 tons of green reptile, 74-feet, nine inches tall, with blood-red lips and eyes that say, "I'm gonna get you!" Resurrected from a world that ended over 60-million years ago, this giant from prehistoric times is loose in Salinas! And with an insatiable hunger!

"Godzelda" is the cartoon creation of Salinas writer and artist, Dana B. Larrabee. And "Godzelda Destroys Salinas" is the first of Larrabee's proposed "Monster Country" trilogy which spoofs those "creature feature" science-fiction movies of the 1950s.

In "Godzelda Destroys Salinas," the idea of nationally marketing ice from arctic icebergs is supposed to save the floundering Icilly Nicely Ice Company. Only when the ice began to melt...a nightmare began for teen-ager Neil Scallopini, who suddenly finds himself on the run from Godzelda!

The situation grows more complicated when adman Lester Krasse must capture the dinosaur for a personal appearance at Malcolm D. Monster's new Monster Mart store.

Unfortunately, Godzelda is more interested in catching up with Neil in a chase that does millions of dollars worth of damage to downtown Salinas. But it's Godzelda's nationally televised public debut that really brings down the house on Jerry Peterson, the marketing director of Monster Mart and radio personality, Tommy Kaye.

Larrabee's lively illustration style combines film animation techniques with photography, hand-painted collage and xerography.

Dana B. Larrabee is the award-winning creative director and copywriter for KTOM radio. He has served as director of photography at KMST TV, the CBS affiliate in Monterey. Larrabee has done free-lance commercial animation and his illustrations appear in the book "Parents as Playmates" by Joan Millman (Human Science Press).

His article on Disney animator Ed Benedict, appeared in the Buyer's Guide to Comic Fandom, a publication devoted to collectors of cartoon art.

Larrabee earned his B.F.A. degree in Illustration at the Rhode Island School of Design.

Colorful ceremonies dedicate a refurbished Path of History

MAYOR DAN Albert and Actors in the Adobes will bridge Monterey's present with the past at ceremonies celebrating the new Path of History and the 140th anniversary of California's Constitutional Convention beginning at 5:30 p.m., Friday, Oct. 13 on the grounds of Colton Hall, Pacific Street, Monterey.

Mayor Albert will preside at ribbon-cutting ceremonies to include the laying of a path marker and introduction of three publications on historic Monterey. Festivities will then shift to the steps of Colton Hall for actors in the adobes, a troupe that performs short, original plays re-creating moments in Monterey's colorful past.

Some 43 buildings and historic sites comprise the Path of History, dating back to the earliest days under Spanish rule when Father Junipero Serra landed on Monterey's shores.

The Path of History itself is an important chapter in Monterey's past. Roger S. Fitch, a retired Army colonel and history enthusiast, conceived the idea nearly 60 years ago, taking it to his fellow members in the Monterey History and Art Association. The next step was approval by the city, which was given, and in 1932 red and orange lines were painted down the center of Monterey streets to mark the path.

Fitch calculated that the tour could be driven in 30 minutes. Today the favorite means of travel is by foot along a sidewalk path recently marked by round metallic gold tiles. On the sidewalk in front of each historic site is an attractive tile setting with an illustration representative of Monterey adobes.

As with the first Path of History, the city of Monterey has not worked alone. Supporting publications, which include a 32-page, full-color pictorial history booklet, were published thanks to donations by the city, the History and Art Association, California Department of Parks and Recreation, Monterey Business Association and the Community Foundation of Monterey County.

Two other brochures also illustrate Monterey's past. "Discover California's Forgotten Capital, 1770 to 1850," emphasizes the historical sites in downtown Monterey. The second is a self-guided walking tour, "Path of History," keyed to the dots and site symbols on the sidewalks of downtown Monterey.

For more information about the Path of History and Constitution Day celebrations, phone 375-9944.

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

Student of the music

JAZZ BOOKER Teri Waros from the Sheraton's Monterey Bay Club (MBC) considers herself a serious student of this music. Today she's positioned to absorb more and more information while using that honeyed voice professionally.

Teri has taken over the late morning weekday slot (nine till noon) at KRML Jazz Radio. You know — the Carmel outlet. When I did shows there, she would call up for details on new albums and younger artists. Now she'll be fielding questions for others.

"Gil (station co-owner Gil Wisdom) made the offer. We discussed it," Teri said, "and now I feel like some kid cut loose in a candy store. The other broadcasters are wonderful — knowledgeable and casual at the same time. It's a learning situation without limit."

At smaller stations all over the land, deejays engineer their own programs. Teri apparently has learned the board very quickly — her first on-air week was free of panic, clicks, pops, strained silences.

More, she plays cuts that hit the ear as fitting that time of day — Paul Desmond, pretty Latin things, Dinah Washington classics with big band behind, Stan Getz, so on. The sound gets tougher as she nears high noon — McCoy Tyner, Woody Shaw. Teri obviously draws upon her listening experience. Good ear.

Of course she'll maintain the MBC management role. An excellent booking was singer Buddy Conner with pianist Spencer Allen, Bryan McConnell on bass, Dexter Gordon Story (drums). Buddy, Bryan and Dexter worked with John Handy's bright group during this year's Monterey Jazz Festival.

Buddy's an extremely sophisticated workman whose inflections and gestures bespeak long years in the business. He pleases the crowd without losing that integrity so necessary to jazz.

Blues, romantic ballads, midtempo standards — all reveal affection for early Al Hibbler and Eddie Jefferson's hornlike flights. His tasteful book includes such seldom-done beauties as Freddie Hubbard's Sunflower and Living Room by Abbey Lincoln and Max Roach.

Between sets, fascinating discussions occurred with 24-year-old Dexter. While majoring in French at Cal Berkeley, he was pegged as a winner by ethnomusicology staffers. He used a departmental stipend to complete his paper on what was called "hot music" by New Orleans players of century's turn. More later about his discoveries.

Dexter's headed for New York where his ladylove — Tiffany McLinn — works for filmmaker Spike Lee. His present campaign: catch on with Betty Carter. Having noted Story's instrumental skill and commitment, I bet the thing happens.

MBC offerings: Higher Feelings (10/12), Broadway Blues Band (10/13-14), Bob Phillips and Terry Miller (10/15), Don Pendergrass plus pals (10/16), Jack and Ed Show (10/17), excellent pianist Larry Dunlap (10/18), singer Kitty Margolis (10/19). Dunlap swings like no tomorrow; Kitty absolutely tore it up at last month's fairgrounds jazz fest.

Carmel Art Association presents a free jazz concert Thursday evening (10/12) at its gallery space on Dolores between Fifth and Sixth. Flutist Kenny Stahl, Bill Jackson on vibes, Andy Weis (drums), Bryan McConnell — they'll jump off at seven o'clock and play for three hours. This's the final event of CAA's 1989 jazz series. Info: 624-6176.

Carmel Festival of Dance spotlights jazz tapdance master Eddie Brown and company in concert Sunday night (10/15) at Sunset Center. Start time: eight o'clock. Tickets at the door.

Extensive remodeling took place at the new Sharkey's club (formerly Hagio's and Cuckoo's Nest) on Franklin in downtown Monterey. It's said that Broadway Blues Band will romp there every Wednesday night. You might want to check out cover charge and dress code beforehand.

(NOTE: JAZZ pianist Robert Abinante, of the well-known music store family, headed up an Arts Center study group for Leadership Monterey Peninsula. He took time out from work and wedding preparations — congrats, Bob — to write this progress report.)

A Center for the Arts has been discussed for over 25 years. During that time there have been numerous proposals, organizations formed, talk, and little productive action. Because of the scope, cost and regional benefit of such a Center, it appears the most logical way to proceed is through a joint venture of the local cities and the county.

Recently a meeting called by Monterey County Supervisor Sam Karas took place at Sunset Center; it could provide the first step in this process. The mayors of every peninsula city and Salinas were invited. Carmel Mayor Jean Grace and Monterey Mayor Dan Albert were present along with representatives from Pacific Grove, Sand City and Seaside. A letter of support from the mayor of Del Rey Oaks was received. Not attending or sending representatives were the cities of Marina and Salinas.

This meeting (primarily one of education) consisted of an introduction of the mayors and representatives, a presentation of five ways the cities could work together, and an overview of surveys showing the public and arts organization support for a Center for the Arts. This was followed by a discussion of personal support from the city representatives with the cautionary comment that whole city councils would have to decide on each city's role.

The major actions of the meeting were the call for a citizens advisory committee to look into the details surrounding a Center, and a study of county and city staff to determine which way would be best for the cities to work together. Subsequent to the meeting, Supervisor Karas has been in contact with a number of potential candidates for this committee.

The various proposals on how the cities and county would work together include a Joint Powers Agency, a County Service Area, a bond issue, or funds through special legislation.

But what does this all mean for jazz? A building in and of itself does not do anything for jazz. What's important is what can go on in that building, and the extra opportunities it provides for jazz or other art forms.

In a survey presented in May of this year, a study group of Leadership Monterey Peninsula found that individuals involved with the arts expressed the need for a small auditorium (250-400 seats), a large auditorium (over 1000 seats), classrooms, rehearsal rooms, dressing rooms, offices, and storage area. It was emphasized that both auditoriums should have state of the art sound and lighting equipment and facilities.

A Center then could provide for jazz performances in both an intimate and large, professionally-equipped settings. This would be a location where the whole focus could be on listening to the performance undisturbed by nearby conversations or the background noise associated with a night club. It could allow rehearsal space for both big bands and smaller groups, and provide classrooms for teaching and lecturing on jazz. Depending on need, it could provide another area for performances of Monterey jazz Festival.

What was emphasized in the Leadership Monterey Peninsula report, and probably best stated by Carmel Councilman Ken White, was that the "center should be first class and not a monument to timidity."

SONNY ROLLINS calls him "the greatest guitarist in jazz." Jim Hall will play Kuumbwa Jazz Center of Santa Cruz on Monday night (10/16). His support force includes one of my favorite keyboardists — Gil Goldstein. Steve La Spina on bass...drummer Terry Clarke.

It's $13 per. Shows at 7:30 and 9:30. Center Stage Ticketing.

Meanwhile, Kuumbwa announces a November event (11/3) that'll kick off its annual membership campaign. Superb writer Al Young reading from jazz-based works, Jazz Auction (items contributed by top players), recognition awards, live music. Full story next time.

PUBLIC NOTICE

CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA CITY COUNCIL ORDINANCE NO. 89-34

AN URGENCY ORDINANCE ESTABLISHING PARKING REGULATIONS IN ALL COMMERCIAL DISTRICTS AND THE R-4 DISTRICT

WHEREAS, the City's General Plan was amended in April 1988; and WHEREAS, the Circulation Element of the General Plan requires the City to prepare a comprehensive Parking Management Plan to resolve this issue of long standing in the community; and

WHEREAS, the Circulation Element also calls for the City to adopt realistic parking standards to reflect the demand from various uses; and WHEREAS, a long range analysis of parking issues and options is being pursued by the Ad Hoc Parking Committee appointed by the City Council; and

WHEREAS, gathering the information needed and reaching a consensus in the community on this issue is expected to take significant time and human resources; and

WHEREAS, until such a long-range plan is established the City must process permits for commercial development in the absence of any standards that are based on a parking studies or other evidence in the records; and

WHEREAS, in 1988 the City adopted an interim ordinance establishing revised parking standards based on evidence in the record from the 1986 parking study which provides the City with a reasonable set of standards consistent with the General Plan until the Parking Management Plan is fully developed; and

WHEREAS, pursuant to Government Code Section 65858 the urgency ordinance may be extended for an additional year to provide more time for a permanent solution.

NOW, THEREFORE, THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA DOES ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

Section One. The following text from Ordinance 88-29, as amended herein, shall be re-adopted and extended and shall replace Chapter 17-34 of the Municipal Code in its entirety:

CHAPTER 17.34 PARKING REQUIREMENTS

17.34.010 Purpose. It is the purpose of this Chapter to require off-street parking for vehicles to lessen the parking congestion on the public streets and to leave street parking available to persons making short-term visits to the commercial district for shopping, business or related activities.

The provisions of this Chapter are intended to:

- Provide clear standards for parking requirements.
- Provide parking requirements that are appropriate for specified land uses.
- Provide for flexibility in meeting parking requirements.
- Ensure that parking requirements are consistent with the land use goals of the community.

E. Discourage unnecessary curb cuts and the loss of street parking spaces through the construction of driveways downtown.

17.34.020 General Requirements. The Table in Subsection A herein below establishes the minimum parking requirements for all uses, projects, developments and redevelopments. New projects or developments shall only be allowed when meeting all parking requirements of this Chapter and the requirements of any use permit, subdivision approval or Specific Plan applicable to the property. Proposed uses within existing buildings may replace existing uses as long as any existing parking deficiencies on the property are not increased by the replacement. Proposed additions of floor area, new shops or dwelling units, or other similar changes in land use resulting in a net increase in parking requirements, as set forth in this Chapter, shall provide all required parking generated by the new activities on the site. Whenever a proposed activity requires the provision of additional parking spaces, the City shall establish a record for the property listing the number of spaces required by the proposed change and the manner in which the increased parking requirements has been satisfied.

Any proposed new buildings, or any substantial replacement or reconstruction of an existing building, shall provide all parking required by the provisions of this Chapter. Replacement or reconstruction shall be deemed substantial if the value of the new construction equals or exceeds fifty percent (50%) of the construction value of the existing building.

A. Explanation of Minimum Parking Table. Table A establishes the minimum amount of parking required for most land uses and land use districts. The Planning Commission shall review proposed projects for their anticipated parking demand and may require additional parking through use permit conditions if substantial evidence supports the need for providing parking beyond the minimum standard.

When the symbol N/A appears in the Table, the land use specified in that row is not an allowed use within the land use district corresponding to that column. Existing legal nonconforming uses within these N/A categories shall not be increased or enlarged in any manner that would result in a need for increased parking spaces using the "Basis for Requirement" listed in the Table. When evaluating parking requirements for such nonconforming uses, the parking requirement shall be the same as the maximum requirement applicable in any land use district in which the land use is allowed and for which parking is required.

B. Fractional Spaces.

1. When parking is to be physically provided on-site or off-site and a determination of the minimum required parking for the project or use results in one (1) or more full spaces plus a fraction of an additional parking space, one (1) full space shall be provided for the fractional space or the fractional space shall be met through fractional in-lieu payments as set forth below.

2. When parking requirements are met through the payment of in-lieu fees, or a combination of in-lieu fees and off-street parking, and a determination of the minimum required parking results in one (1) or more full spaces plus a fraction of an additional parking space, the in-lieu payment shall include one (1) full fee for each one (1) full space plus a fractional fee proportional to the fractional space.

C. Minimum Off-Street Parking. It is recognized that providing parking on some sites will result in the loss of existing or potential on-street parking spaces due to the location of driveways or other improvements. Therefore, off-street parking shall only be allowed when the cumulative effect of providing such parking will result in a net gain of total parking spaces. When any determination of the minimum required parking for a project or use results in a need for only one (1) space, and parking is being physically provided off-street, two (2) full spaces shall be required unless the applicant can demonstrate a reconfiguration of on-street spaces, consistent with guidelines maintained by the Department of Public Works for street parking, that yields a net gain in total available parking when only one (1) off-street space is provided.

TABLE A: MINIMUM PARKING REQUIREMENTS

Land Use	Basis for Requirement	Land Use District Parking Factors
		CC	SC	RC	R4
Permanent residential use (apartments, etc.)	Spaces per Unit	1	1	1.5	1.5

D. Properties Located in More Than One District. For projects located on property falling within two or more land use districts with different parking standards, the parking requirement shall be determined by using the parking standards applicable to that portion of the development lying within each of the land use districts involved.

E. Design Standards. The following standards shall apply to all surface and underground parking designs:

1. Dimensions: Standard Spaces: 9 feet by 20 feet
Compact Spaces: 8 1/2 feet by 16 feet.

For all parking designs with parking spaced perpendicular to vehicle travel lands, a minimum of twenty-four feet (24') shall be provided for automobile back-up room behind standard spaces and eighteen feet (18') behind compact spaces. Design shall minimize the need for multiple or complex turning movements. Where angled parking is used, the minimum back-up room shall be that distance specified in the current edition of Architectural Graphic Standards.

2. Compact Ratio: Compact spaces may constitute fifty percent (50%) of the total required spaces. All spaces provided in excess of the minimum requirements may be compact spaces.

3. Driveways: Driveways shall be located to preserve as much on-street curb parking as possible. Driveways and other improvements on the property shall be designed for safe and unobstructed visibility of pedestrians and automobile traffic both on and off the site.

4. Design Review: All parking, whether on-site or off-site shall be subject to Design Review in conformance with Section 17.10.170, Chapter 17.40 and all provisions of this Chapter.

F. Surface Parking Design. The following standards apply to the design of surface parking in addition to those required by Subsection E, above:

1. Setbacks: Surface parking spaces shall not be constructed within required setback areas. Portions of rear or side setback areas may be used for back-up movements as long as the majority of the setback is landscaped.

2. Landscaping: Building sites incorporating surface parking lots shall include at least fifteen percent (15%) of the site area in landscaping. Landscaping shall be distributed along all street frontages and pedestrian walkways that are adjacent to parking areas to help screened parked automobiles from view. Plant species and/or planters should be designed to achieve a height of at least five feet (5') above the surface of the parking lot except where this would conflict with safe visibility or good site design. Landscaping shall also be provided within the interior of surface lots to break up large expanses of paving. Parking lots with four (4) or more vehicles shall provide interior landscaping of at least ten (10) square feet per vehicle and one (1) tree per each four (4) vehicles.

G. Underground Parking Design: The following standards apply to underground parking garages in addition to those required by Subsection E, above:

1. Height: For that portion of an underground garage facing any public street, way, place or park, the maximum height of the finished floor level above an underground parking garage shall not be higher than five feet (5') above the existing grade or the official street grade whichever measurement results in the lower height.

The maximum height of the finished floor level above an underground garage shall not be higher than eight feet (8') above the surface of the ground adjacent to any exterior wall around the full perimeter of the garage. Garages not meeting these two standards shall be counted as a story.

2. Setbacks: Underground parking garages may be constructed within required setbacks if significant trees will not be removed or injured and the setback can still be effectively landscaped. Underground garage designs should provide sufficient roof around the perimeter to accommodate existing and new tree root systems.

3. Driveways: The grade of driveways providing access to underground garages shall not exceed five percent (5%) in the first ten feet (10') of the driveway slope near the entry and shall not exceed ten percent (10%) in the last ten feet (10') near the level of the garage floor. The intervening grade shall not exceed twenty-five percent (25%). Driveway designs shall provide sufficient area to allow drivers to view automobile and pedestrian traffic before merging into such traffic.

4. Ventilation and Access: Garages shall be ventilated to avoid the build-up of exhaust gases. When mechanical ventilation is used, noise mitigation measures shall be incorporated such as low-noise fans, insulated ductwork and vibration absorbing mounting systems. Ducts shall not exhaust toward any openings or open space on any adjoining property nor toward any on-site or off-site way, street, place or park accessible to the public. Plans for underground garages shall be reviewed to ensure accessibility for Police and Fire Department personnel during emergencies.

17.34.030 Exceptions. It is recognized that some sites, due to size, shape, topography, existing buildings, the availability of land suitable for parking purposes or location within specific land use districts, may have difficulty meeting all parking requirements. Therefore, the following exceptions are provided to increase the flexibility in meeting parking requirements:

A. On-Site Parking in the Central Commercial (CC) Land Use District. In contrast to the other districts within the City, on-site parking is prohibited in the Central Commercial (CC) Land Use District. This policy eliminates the need for curb cuts in sidewalks and the interference with free pedestrian traffic flow that would result from an excessive number of driveways. This policy is also intended to enhance the opportunities for creating intra-block courts and walkways between properties and buildings.

B. Use of Another Site. Parking requirements may be fulfilled by supplying the required parking on another site upon approval of a use permit. When use of another site for parking is authorized, such parking shall be located within the commercial district on property permitting such use. The land area required to provide such parking shall be legally committed for the full life of the structure for which the parking is required. The legal commitment shall be of such a nature that it cannot be withdrawn for the life of the structure, without the consent of the City.

Applicants applying for approval of a use permit authorizing the use of another site for parking purposes must demonstrate one (1) of the following conditions:

1. The property owners of two (2) or more adjacent properties have proposed a combined development plan to provide the required parking for their properties, in accordance with the parking standards established in this Chapter, on part of the several sites involved.

2. The project site for which the parking requirement applies is 5,000 square feet or less in size and has less than fifty feet (50') of street frontage.

3. The construction of required driveway(s) for on-site parking would result in the excessive loss of curb parking on-street.

4. The topography, size, shape or peculiar conditions of the site or the existing development on the site would make the provision of on-site parking impractical.

5. The site for which parking is required is located within the Central Commercial (CC) Land Use District where on-site parking is prohibited.

C. Parking Adjustment In-Lieu Fees. The Planning Commission may authorize the satisfaction of parking requirements through the granting of a use permit and the payment of in-lieu fees when on-site parking is not practical or when on-site parking is prohibited by City policies. Parking adjustments shall not decrease the number of parking spaces required by this Chapter. The practicality of providing parking on-site shall be evaluated by using the criteria set forth in conditions 2 through 4 in Subsection B herein, above. Standards for participation in the In-Lieu Fee Program are established in Section 17.34.040. Applicants for use permits authorizing the use of in-lieu fees to adjust on-site parking shall also demonstrate both of the following:

1. The parking for which the adjustment is sought is not required for serving hotel or motel uses.

2. The applicant has diligently pursued meeting the parking requirements both on-site and off-site, but has been unsuccessful in meeting the requirement, or that the site is located within the Central Commercial (CC) Land Use District where on-site parking is prohibited.

17.34.040 Parking In-Lieu Fee Program. When parking adjustments have been authorized by the Planning Commission in conformance with Section 17.34.030.C, required parking may be satisfied by the payment to the City of in-lieu fees. Funds collected by the City from such payments shall be deposited in a specific fund and used by the City to acquire and/or develop off-street parking. Such parking shall be available to the public and shall be in or near the business district of the City. Funds paid to the City for in-lieu parking shall not be refundable, in the event of destruction or removal of the structure or land use for which the funds were paid, but shall run with the land. The City shall maintain a record of all spaces credited to each property including all spaces paid through in-lieu fees, spaces physically provided on each property and all spaces represented by the existing parking nonconformity on each site.

A. Payment of In-Lieu Fees. All in-lieu parking fees shall be paid prior to the issuance of the first permit (business any license or building permit) for which the in-lieu fees are required with one exception. The only exception arises when the number of in-lieu parking spaces exceeds five (5), in which case at least forty percent (40%) of the total in-lieu fees shall be paid prior to the issuance of In such cases involving delayed payments all parking fees not paid upon issuance of the first project permit or license shall accrue interest at the prime interest rate fixed on the date the first permit or license is issued. Any fees, including interest, that will be subject to such delayed payments shall be evidenced by a promissory note. This promissory note shall provide for the payment of attorney's fees and costs to the prevailing party and shall be secured by a Deed of Trust.

B. Determination of Value of Parking In-Lieu Fees. The amount to be charged for an in-lieu parking space shall be determined by using the current construction costs of public garages having Type I or Type II fire resistance and the regional modifier for the San Francisco area as supplied by the "Building Standards" of the International Conference of Building Officials and a factor representing land costs.

Four hundred (400) square feet shall be used as the necessary area for a car to park and have maneuvering room with ingress and egress. The current construction costs per square foot shall be multiplied by the modifier to determine the cost per square foot to construct the parking space. The cost of constructing the parking space shall then be increased by fifty percent (50%) to reflect land cost. This total shall be the amount paid for each one (1) full in-lieu parking space.

Section Two. The Required Finding in Section 17.18.180(D) shall be replaced by the following text:

D. That parking will be provided to serve all new development on the site consistent with the provisions of Chapter 17.34.

Section Three. Paragraphs one and two of Section 17.12.110(B-7) shall be replaced by the text appearing in Section 17.34.020(F-2) herein, above.

Section Four. Severability. If any part of this ordinance is found to be unenforceable, such finding shall not affect the enforceability of any other part.

Section Five. Effective Date. This ordinance is hereby declared to be an urgency ordinance as established in Section 65858 of the California Government Code. This ordinance shall take effect immediately upon approval by at least a four-fifths vote of the City Council and shall remain effective for one year unless repealed or replaced as established by State Statute. The terms and provisions of this ordinance shall apply to all projects in all Commercial Districts and the R-4 District that have not yet received at least one discretionary approval for a use permit or design review. Any project or application for which at least one discretionary approval has been granted by the Planning Commission or the City Council shall be allowed to continue through normal permit processes and to project completion.

Section Six. Statement of Urgency. The City Council finds that there is a current and immediate threat to public health safety and welfare from continued approvals of projects that do not supply adequate parking to meet the demand generated by such projects. The Council also finds that the Circulation Element of the General Plan requires the development of a comprehensive Parking Management Plan to address the full range of issues and solutions to parking problems in Carmel-by-the-Sea. Until such a plan can be adopted, there is an immediate need to enact interim parking standards that are consistent with the General Plan so that the approval of new projects does not exacerbate parking problems in the absence of a permanent ordinance. Failure to address these problems may degrade the quality of life and of the environment enjoyed by the residents of the City, increase congestion and conflict with the General Plan.

CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA CITY COUNCIL ORDINANCE NO. 89-28

AN ORDINANCE ADOPTING A ZONE CHANGE TO EXCLUDE THE EASTERLY PORTIONS OF LOTS 4 AND 5, BLOCK A-2, FROM THE R-1-BEACH ZONING DISTRICT

WHEREAS, the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea's Local Coastal Land Use Plan was certified in 1981; and
WHEREAS, the Land Use Plan identifies a zone of beach related properties and special provisions for those properties to protect coastal resources; and
WHEREAS, in 1983 the City adopted an R-1-Beach Overlay (R-1-B) district which includes those beach related properties identified in the Land Use Plan; and
WHEREAS, the R-1-B zone includes lots 4 and 5 of Block A-2 located between Scenic Drive and San Antonio Road, and between 9th and 10th; and

WHEREAS, this property contains two legal lots of record of approximately 40 feet by 195 feet; and

WHEREAS, the property is presently developed as one building site with a house located on the westerly half of lots 4 and 5; and

WHEREAS, the provision of the Certified Land Use Plan and the R-1-Beach Overlay restrict the creation of new building sites within the R-1-B district; and

WHEREAS, the purpose of this provision is to ensure the coastal resources are protected from increased density and traffic and from the loss of trees, open space and views; and

WHEREAS, with the exception of the easterly halves of lots 4 and 5, all of the eastern portions of lots in blocks A1, A2 and A3 between Eighth and Eleventh, are separate building sites with residences fronting on San Antonio; and

WHEREAS, of the lots on the west side of San Antonio between Eighth and Eleventh, only lots 4 and 5 of Block A-2 are in the R-1-B overlay district; and

WHEREAS, between the beach and the easterly halves of lots 4 and 5 is an existing residence.

WHEREAS, the Planning Commission held a public hearing on the exclusion of the easterly one-half of lots 4 and 5, A-2, and adopted Resolution No. 89-28 recommending the exclusion of the easterly portions of lots 4 and 5.

NOW, THEREFORE, THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA DOES FIND AND ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

Section One. That the easterly halves of Lots 4 and 5, Block A-2, are not beach related and development could occur on the lots without impacting the objectives of the California Coastal Act and the City's Land Use Plan.

Section Two. That the easterly eighty feet of lots 4 and 5 Block A-2, be excluded from the R-1-B zone and the Official Zoning Map of the City be amended to reflect the R-1-B Boundary between the easterly and westerly portions of Lots 4 and 5, Block A-2.

Section Three. That a boundary adjustment to the beach related properties reflecting this change be requested from the California Coastal Commission.

Section Four. That the property owners be required to file a parcel map of the property removing the eastwest line between Lots 4 and 5 and redividing the lots at a point 80 feet west of the eastern boundary of the property resulting in two lots.

Section Five: Severability. If any part of this ordinance is found to be unenforceable, such finding shall not affect the enforceability of any other part.

Section Six: Effective Date: The ordinance shall take effect 30 days after final adoption.
